DEMOCRATS DEMAND REPEAL

Roosevelt Strength Put at 650 Votes

Today

Stop Locomotive.
His Last Run.
Personality in Names.
Tommy, Jock, Bobby.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CHICAGO, June 30.

THIS MORNING you will read the Democratic platform and get the impression that Democrats, like yourself, don't really know what is the matter with the country. They lay all our troubles to mistakes that Republicans have made SINCE the war.

Angels probably know that our troubles are due to the mistake that the human race made when it STARTED that war.

ALSO, IN THIS writer's opinion, you will soon be reading that Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, is the presidential candidate of the Democratic party.

The "Stop Roosevelt" campaign suggests the young bull that got on the track with a "stop locomotive" program.

Everybody sympathized with the bull.

CONVENTIONS, parties and candidates do not interfere with our great modern industry, bootlegging. Prohibition may go, and bootlegging probably with it, but it hasn't gone yet.

George Brooks, 39 years old, of 162 Kenilworth avenue, Calumet City, ran out of his home across his lawn. He was shot down in the usual way. He was only a small alcohol peddler, poaching, perhaps, on some other "alky peddler's" territory.

His wife, Dolly, aged 23, was putting their 4-year-old daughter, Bonnie, to bed when the killing was done.

MRS. CORINNE M. WARD sends from Parma, Idaho, "with compliments and prayers," a prohibition pamphlet called "Prohibition Facts, Questions, Answers." The pamphlet says:

"Prohibition did immediately and sharply reduce crime."

Mrs. Dolly Brooks and her daughter Bonnie probably question that statement. The pamphlet says:

"Prohibition did practically eliminate the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks."

"Prohibition did immediately bring an era of unprecedented national prosperity."

The platforms of both political parties question those statements.

REPORTERS ARE always tempted to write about personalities, knowing that human beings are interested in their kind, remembering Bacons' "Nihil Humani me Alienum Puto."

But at a national convention you feel like Sinbad the sailor in the valley of diamonds. There are so many personality diamonds you can hardly decide which one to pick up. As interesting a human picture as any is presented by Bernard Baruch standing up in the restaurant talking with profound solemnity to "Alice," who is not solemn at all.

It is not necessary to add that "Alice," in our language, always means Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

CERTAIN FIRST names, in our social system, belong to certain individuals.

If you don't know for instance that "Tommy" always means Tommy Hitchcock, Jr., that "Jock" means young Mr. Whitney, and that "Bobbie" is a synonym for Goelet, you might as well go back to the small town that you came from as far as any social progress goes.

BERNARD M. BARUCH, who used to tell Woodrow Wilson what to do and how to do it in a financial way, could act well in a charade presenting La Fontaine's Le Chene et le Roseau. He would be the oak, "Alice" the Roseau.

THE HARDEST political worker here is Jesse I. Straus, one of three young New York brothers that understand whatever they undertake. Jesse I. is here in the interest of Gov. Roosevelt, working as steadily and quietly as the mainspring of a good watch.

The writer has known him since he was a small boy listening to his mother, Mrs. Isidor Straus, read good books aloud, and still wonders at the efficient frictionless functioning of that family.

IF YOU HAVE friends that hoard money, even taking it out of savings banks, tell them the sad story of John Lasko, of Chicago, then draw a moral.

Mr. Lasko decided that a savings bank was no place for his $1,000, so he took it out. Then he met a lady named Anna, who suggested that "a round of drinks in her flat in South Bishop street, wouldn't do him any harm, if he didn't swallow them."

In mistaken conviviality he did swallow "the round," and now he tells the police that the headache seems to be just at the top of his forehead. The thousand dollars he has no longer.

CHICAGO HAS been having some trouble with small banks and the fact has been advertised. The difficulty has been in the ease with which a little bank could start. Two hundred and fifty bankers in one place will hang up their shingles like two hundred and fifty young lawyers, in two hundred and fifty villages, and without the preliminary training that lawyers must have.

IT MEANS little to you, but a great deal to Chicago, that "the $5 quotation was restored to the hog market today after a lapse of three and a half months."

CURTIS' JURY GETS POLICE RECORDS

Tell of Gang Taking Ill Baby To Doctor, Keeping Latter Silent Under Death Threat

FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 30.—(AP.)—A statement was read into the court record today in which John Hughes Curtis said the Lindbergh baby sickened after being kidnaped and was treated by a doctor who was pledged to secrecy under pain of death.

Curtis is on trial for hindering capture of the kidnapers, and today an attempt by his attorneys to have a mistrial declared failed.

Capt. John P. Lamb, of the New Jersey state police, read a lengthy statement Curtis made on the second and third days after the baby was found dead, in which he detailed how the baby, who was suffering from a cold when he was stolen, became sick shortly afterwards, and was given medical attention by the physician who was permitted to leave after the baby recovered, but with a warning that if he told about his contacts he would be killed.

MENTIONS AIDES

The statement also told on the entrance into the case of Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, and Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, the Norfolk men who vouched for Curtis to Col. Lindbergh.

Curtis said one of the kidnapers, Olaf Larsen, also known as "Dynamite" or "Din," bore a strong resemblance to Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, who has had general charge of the police search for the kidnapers.

Schwarzkopf today, for the first time, was sitting at the prosecution table, and spectators tittered as Schwarzkopf stared expres-

Bank Plans Loans To Home Builders

CLEVELAND, June 30.—(AP.)—J. R. Kraus, chairman of the board of the Union Trust Company, today announced the bank is prepared to make construction loans to home builders who are its customers. This is in line with the government's efforts to put bank credit to work to stimulate business and employment.

General improvement in credit conditions and the belief that the time is favorable for a least a moderate recovery in residential construction led to the bank's decision, a statement said.

The Problem

DR. R. J. WATKINS, director of Pitt Bureau of Business Research, says:

"We have the most magnificent plant equipment the world has ever devised, a market of 125 million consumers, and yet millions are looking in vain for work. Our standard of living is being driven down."

The Remedy

A $5,000,000,000 bond issue by the United States to build great public works, employ several million men, start the nation back to prosperity.

DRIVER SHOT IN STRUGGLE WITH THUG

Held Up in Sawmill Run Road, He Battles Bandit; Travels Mile for Help

A midnight battle, police were told, with a gunman in Saw Mill Run boulevard today, left Thomas M. Lyons, 36, department manager of the Scott Paper Company, shot and seriously wounded in South Side Hospital.

The gunman, Lyons says, hopped on his car, flashed a revolver and took his money—$20.

Lyons told police he leaped from the car and grappled in the road with the thug, and was shot in the abdomen.

Weakened, he staggered to his car and drove more than a mile to Brownsville avenue, in Carrick, where he called to pedestrians, who drove him to South Side Hospital.

Lyons drove past his home at 44 Greenlee road, Brentwood, where his wife, Mrs. Juliette Lyons, awaited him. Mrs. Lyons said today she believed he was trying to reach Brentwood police station.

A door window in Lyon's auto was smashed, Lyons says, when the gunman slammed the door shut before fleeing.

PINCHOT OFFERS AINEY HEARING

HARRISBURG, June 30.—(INS.)—A letter from Gov. Gifford Pinchot today gave William D. B. Ainey, chairman of the Public Service Commission, the opportunity to answer publicly charges that he had received $150,000 from the late Thomas E. Mitten, former president of Mitten Management Corporation, which for several years operated Philadelphia's traction lines.

The charges, contained in a lengthy statement filed with Attorney General William A. Schnader by A. A. Chapman, former Mitten employe, were emphatically denied by Ainey, who termed them part of a "blackmail attempt."

Gov. Pinchot transmitted to Ainey a copy of the charges and said he would be "glad to afford" the Commission chairman "an opportunity publicly to answer the charges, in person or by counsel, on Monday, July 11, at 2 p. m., in the Governor's reception room in the Capitol."

Ainey said today he had reached no decision on the Governor's offer of an opportunity to defend himself publicly.

Pastor Goes Aspying, Says Payrollers 'Loaf'

Glenshaw Man Calls County Road Work 'Scandalous'

Loafing by county road crews is "scandalous" and is not improving under the present regime, the Rev. Dr. Robert S. Young, pastor of the Glenshaw Presbyterian Church, revealing himself as a secret observer, declared in a letter to the County Commissioners, read at today's meeting.

Dr. Young said he had observed the work of crews in the course of his pastoral duties, particularly in Shaler, Ross and Hampton townships, and sent the letter, not in any spirit of "malicious tale-bearing," but to assist in the economic administration of the county. He said:

"The average man in these road crews spreads over a full day an amount of work which he should put through in about two hours.

"About three months before the present board of Commissioners took office I secreted myself at a point from which I could observe a county road crew at work. I remained there exactly 30 minutes. During that time one of the crew threw exactly five shovels of earth into the trucks he was helping to load? Another went one better and threw six in 30 minutes.

"Under the present regime conditions do not seem to be any better. Whatever wages these men receive, they receive far more than the value of the work they do. As an example I have personal knowledge, by observation, of a workman who took almost two hours to sweep a ditch which did not need to be swept."

Nurse's 3-Legged Duck Figures in Hutton Suit

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—(AP.)—Eleven defense witnesses have testified there were many men in the life of Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, attractive nurse, who seeks $200,000 for alleged breach of promise from David Hutton, singer husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist.

And Mark Jones, defense attorney, said there were more to appear today in an effort to disprove the contention of the twice-married, 30-year-old brunette that her association with the rotund Hutton developed into her "one great love."

John C. Edwards, secretary-treasurer of the Affiliated Improvement Associations of Los Angeles County, said that as a neighbor of Miss St. Pierre in Hollywood in 1928, he believed she lived in the same house with Albert Eben, organist.

Eben and Miss St. Pierre, he said, played in the back yard with her three-legged duck. He indicated that such an odd duck helped him to remember the circumstances.

The witness was joined by his wife in testimony that the gay sounds of parties floated from the St. Pierre home next door.

FASCISTI MODEL FOR COX ARMY

PARIS, June 30.—(INS.)—The Rev. Father James R. Cox, of Pittsburgh, revealed today he intends to organize his "Blue Shirt" army of unemployed in the United States along the lines of Adolf Hitler's famous "Brown shirts" and Premier Benito Mussolini's "Black Shirt" Fascists.

He said he was en route to Berlin and Rome to interview the two famous Fascist leaders to obtain advice on carrying out his plans.

Father Cox, leader of an unemployment army to Washington several months ago, declared he was a candidate for President of the Jobless Liberty party, which is to be the official name of his "Blue Shirt" forces, at its first national convention in St. Louis on August 17.

FOES HAMMER AT LINES OF N. Y. GOVERNOR AS NOMINATIONS NEAR

BULLETIN.

CHICAGO, June 30.—(AP.)—The Democratic platform was adopted this afternoon after the convention defeated the McAdoo minority plank on banking and recorded itself as opposed to immediate cash payment of the bonus.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

STADIUM, Chicago, June 30.—Both the Roosevelt and the anti-Roosevelt lines were a little wobbly today as delegates to the Democratic national convention returned to the Stadium to complete action on their dripping wet platform and clear away the oratorical underbrush for the presidential nomination.

Throughout the night and forenoon the rival managers hamemred away at each other's lines. The Roosevelt leaders striving for the "less than 100 votes" which they contend are all that is necessary to put over the New York Governor early in the balloting; the allies trying to hold their own lines and conduct successful forays into Roosevelt's.

FEAR DESERTIONS

The Roosevelt managers are none too sure of some of their own strength once two or three ballots have been taken.

He will have on the first ballot approximately 650 votes, give or take 20 either way, according to the most reliable estimates. James A. Farley, the field marshal of his forces, thinks he will have 690.

No man in a Democratic national convention has ever got that close to the nomination without getting it. But it requires 770 votes to nominate under the ancient two-thirds rule which the Roosevelt managers so hastily embraced when facing defeat in their effort to abrogate it.

Voting on the presidential nomination will not begin until tomorrow under the plans arranged today by the convention leaders, with Senator Thomas J. Walsh, chairman.

After disposing of the balance of the minority reports on the platform and then adopting it, nominating speeches will be in

Pittsburgh Actress Weds Hal Shubert

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Hal Shubert, the actor who said "I do" 7,500 times on the stage as Abie in "Abie's Irish Rose," said it in real life yesterday when he was married to Miss Marguerite Wegley, formerly of Pittsburgh.

The bride, who was a stock company ingenue, has retired from the stage.

REPEAL VOTE AIDS GARNER

CHICAGO, June 30.—(INS.)—Friends of Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas, renewed their battle for delegates today with high hopes that adoption of an anti-dry platform by the Democratic national convention will make him its presidential choice.

The one-sided vote of the convention, Garner backers said, disclosed that the Speaker and the convention are in absolute harmony on the issue of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendments. Other planks in the platform which are uncontested and will be accepted also are declared to be in harmony with the Speaker's record.

The determination of the big Texas delegation to carry their battle for Garner to the end was evidenced in last night's struggle in the convention. In its first caucus the Texas delegation, as a result of action by its state convention, voted for straight resubmission, but then changed and supported repeal to be in entire harmony with the Speaker.

The captains of the Garner movement maintain that his long record in Congress, his consistent fight for Democratic principles and the record that he has made as Speaker of the House, entitle him to consideration.

Dr. Wilson Awaits Collision Sentence

PORTLAND, Ore., June 30.—(AP.)—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Board of Prohibition, Temperance and Public Morals, was convicted in police court here yesterday of a charge of reckless driving. Judge Fred W. Stadter continued the case for sentence.

Dr. Wilson was the driver of a car which, last February 21, collided here with one driven by L. F. Welch, of Portland. Police said Dr. Wilson left town without reporting the accident, as required by law.

Vets' Loan Bill Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP.)—The Senate today passed and sent to the House a bill reducing from 4½ to 3 per cent the rate of interest on loans to veterans on World War adjusted service certificates.

The bill also provides that loans may be made immediately after issuance of the certificate instead of waiting two years, as now provided.

Democrat Never Adjourns But Fights on Until Finish

—By WILL ROGERS—

CHICAGO, June 30.—This is the fourth day of the convention. This is the day the Republicans adjourned. Adjourned, why the Democrats havent done anything but meet and pray yet. They met and adjourned. How can you tell when a Democratic convention is adjourned and when its not? A Democrat never adjourns. He is born, becomes of voting age, and starts right in arguing over something and his first political adjournment is his date with the undertaker.

Will Rogers

Politics is business with the Democrat. He dont work at it but he tells what he would do if he was working at it.

We had another preacher pray for us yesterday. We will run out of denominations pretty soon so have wired to "Sister Aimee" to come along and lead us on the final day.

If they dont hurry up and start voting on a president

DEMOCRATIC STAND CENTERS CAMPAIGN ON REPEAL ISSUE

PARTY SWAMPS 'STRADDLE' PLANK

order. These will run for approximately six hours. A night session will be held tonight to clean up all the speeches.

Roosevelt's floor lieutenants were all over the place just before the gavel fell, conferring, buttonholing, cajoling.

Any serious inroads in the Roosevelt lines at this point, on the eve of the balloting, might prove fatal to the New York Governor's chances. For one thing, it would destroy the bandwagon psychology that his managers are counting on so heavily to push him across the two-thirds mark, which he yet is admittedly short of reaching.

Whoever gets this nomination, however, whether it be Franklin D. Roosevelt or any of the favorite sons or dark horses, is going to run on a platform so dripping wet that prohibition cannot be otherwise than the uppermost issue of the campaign.

Before sunset the party will be committed to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead Act pending such repeal—a radical shift from the position of 1920, 1924 and 1928.

By the astonishing vote of 634¾ to 213¾, the national convention early today defeated a "straddle plank" that merely called for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment to the people, and by so doing insured adoption of a prohibition plank that is the delight of the wets and the dismay of the drys.

However goes the nomination, nothing could be more surprising in this convention than the drastic drubbing which the convention administered early today to the southern drys in the convention.

The prohibition resubmission plank which the Republicans turned down here two weeks ago as being too wet was kicked out of the Democratic convention as being too dry.

The vote followed hours of fervent oratory, which saw a veritable parade of party leaders across the platform in support of the dripping plank which is to receive formal indorsement later today.

Al Smith in Grim Attack On Dodging Issue

There was Al Smith, a little grim, but as full of wisecracks as ever. He said:

"If there's anything the American people dislike it's a dodger. The Republican candidate four years ago was in just that position. He wanted to be right with everybody. He described the amendment as a noble experiment.

"He indicated he was going to do something about it. He did do something. He appointed a commission which spent a half a million dollars. And when he got the report, he sent for the blotting paper, and dried it up.

"I hope in the interest of the party, in the interest of the country, I sincerely hope in the interest of the taxpayers that the report of the majority of the committee may be adopted by this convention."

'HONEST DEFINITION'

He asked for an "honest, fair," definition of what constitutes an intoxicant "in place of the definition of the Anti-Saloon League, written into the Volstead act by Wayne B. Wheeler himself."

They gave Al an old-fashioned rousing reception when he took the platform for the first time—but maybe not the last—in this convention. They may not want him for the presidency, but they raised the roof for him anyway.

There was Gov. Ritchie, the handsomest of all the candidates, and popular among the rank and file.

He reminded them that "12 long years ago, when it was not as fashionable as it is now, I stood for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

There were many others, senators, congressmen, governors, national committeemen and committeewomen. The anti-dry speakers outnumbered the dry two to one.

The repealists were almost as much surprised as the drys at the magnitude of the anti-dry victory.

Before the vote, Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, who wrote the repeal plank, said he felt confident he had a 200 majority for it. When he saw those 934 votes roll up he could scarcely believe he was in a Democratic convention.

McAdoo Presents Plank To Guarantee Deposits

It was 1:30 p. m. today before the iron gray thatch of Chairman Walsh peeped over the mikes on the platform. Ten minutes later he banged his gavel and ordered them into their seats.

Without waiting for much order, he introduced George Shaw Cook, Christian Scientist, who told them that under Christian Science practices there was only one prayer—"The Lord's Prayer."

The delegates either didn't understand the instructions or something, for they didn't join in very audibly.

It was the shortest prayer of the convention to date and there was actually applause when he sat down.

The lean figure of William Gibbs McAdoo, immaculate in a white linen suit, then took the stage to present his minority plank to the Democratic platform, which would have the federal government guarantee bank deposits in banks of the Federal Reserve system.

McAdoo said his plank had been defeated by a vote of only 27 to 22 in the resolutions committee, and asserted:

"In view of the conditions in the country I felt it was imperative for us to announce clearly whether it shall be the policy of this party to declare for the safety of men and women who are compelled to place their money in banks.

"And unless the custodians of those funds under our banking system are so organized that they can impress people with their safety then the very foundations of our banking system are shaken."

McAdoo, a former Secretary of the Treasury, went back to the currency reform of the Wilson administration and traced its history.

When McAdoo retired, Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, who succeeded him as Secretary of the Treasury, took the platform to oppose his minority report.

Glass said he regretted he had to disagree with McAdoo, "but this matter is of such supreme importance to the harmony and success of the Democratic party as well as to the integrity of our banking system that I would feel derelict in my duty did I not protest to this convention against it."

Nomination speeches were to be started immediately after the vote on McAdoo's banking plank and on another minority report of Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma, who proposed eight new economic planks, including a demand for cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

The first nominating speech was to be that of John E. Mack, of New York, placing the name of Gov. Roosevelt before the convntion.

Cassatt, Anti-Dry, Hails Democrats

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(AP.)—Robert K. Cassatt, executive chairman of the Pennsylvania Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, today said:

"Every man and woman in America who has come to realize the evils and burdens resulting from the Eighteenth Amendment welcome the honest, straightforward declaration of the Democratic party that it favors repeal."

THE MIDDLEMAN? -:- -:- By Quin Hall

What the Candidates Are Doing

Associated Press.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT—The Governor heard everything by radio and retired to bed in the executive mansion at Albany without public comment. Asked again about reports he might fly to Chicago, he said he was going on a quintet bicycle, with his four sons behind him.

ALFRED E. SMITH—The former Governor got a little rest after leading the fight for repeal with a crackling speech and getting an ovation that rocked the hall. Listeners noticed that it is still "raddio" to the 1928 nominee.

ALBERT C. RITCHIE—The crowd gave the Maryland Governor an ovation, too, when he took the platform to conclude the attack for the repeal forces. He was easily the best-dressed of the speakers, and looked perfectly at home, as always.

JOHN NANCE GARNER—The Speaker of the House stayed on the job at Washington, still silent.

WILLIAM H. MURRAY—"Alfalfa Bill" may get the palm for endurance. He led the kiltie band, visited rival headquarters, shook countless hands, and then went out to battle for his own economic platform before the convention.

MELVIN TRAYLOR—The Chicago bankers' supporters continued their campaign for him after his manager stirred things up with the charge that an unidentified Roosevelt supporter offered him $10,000 to withdraw Traylor. Quick denial came from the Roosevelt camp.

NEWTON D. BAKER—Attending an outdoor grand opera program in Cleveland last night, the former Secretary of War was given an ovation by thousands. He expressed tentative satisfaction with the Democratic platform, but reserved final comment until he studies the text. "The economic features seem very direct and adequate," he said.

Other candidates did not figure prominently in the news for the time being, but their supporters were active.

6 DEAD, 4 HURT IN OHIO WRECK

HAMILTON, O., June 30.—(AP.)—Two racing electric cars of the Cincinnati and Lake Erie Railroad smashed head-on north of here today, killing six persons and injuring four. One car carried passengers, speeding northward. The other was heavily loaded with freight.

Weight and speed behind it, the freight crunched through the passenger car, burying its nose in the middle of the lighter vehicle.

The dead were: Joseph Brosey, Hamilton, motorman of the passenger car; H. P. Augsburgher and his son, Jack, of Trenton, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wilson, of Hamilton, and George Betz, of Hamilton.

STATE'S GROUP BATTLES OVER CANDIDATES

By MARK SHIELDS
Political Editor.

CHICAGO, June 30.—From now on it is warfare to the hilt in the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Today the Democrats begin setting forth their suggestions for nomination for the presidency, and every indication was that the task would extend far into the night, with the possibility of a first ballot before Friday.

On this ballot, and on the nomination, there are severe differences among Pennsylvanians, how severe no one may accurately say until the initial roll is called. Some time today Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, sister of Joseph F. Guffey, Pennsylvania manager of the Roosevelt forces, will second Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt on behalf of Pennsylvania.

Former Mayor James P. Rossiter, of Erie, will second the nomination of Al Smith.

An impartial estimate of presidentiel strength in the Pennsylvania delegation shows that Mrs. Miller will be taking the popular side. Certainly a preponderance of the delegation will follow her and her brother into the Roosevelt camp. Guffey today reiterated his confidence that the delegation would give Roosevelt 66 votes on the first ballot, but this seemed a bit optimistic. Roosevelt may get as many as 50, though there is a spreading sentiment for Newton D. Baker, of Ohio, a sentiment given point by the activities of Judge Henry C. Niles, of York County.

The Curtis statement also described a meeting with "John," the alleged leader of the kidnapers and the man to whom Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon paid a futile $50,000 ransom for Col. Lindbergh.

LINDY UNDISTURBED

Curtis said he pressed "John" for further proof to give Col. Lindbergh to convince him that Curtis was in touch with the actual kidnapers. The statement quoted "John" as replying:

"To hell with the Colonel. We have his money. That's identification enough. If they don't believe you they can go to hell."

Col. Lindbergh was writing busily at the prosecution table when Lamb read of "John's" defiant remarks. There was a murmur of angry disapproval among the spectators but Lindbergh himself did not look up and apparently did not even hear what was said.

Testimony yesterday by Frank J. Wilson, Internal Revenue agent, who is credited with helping to put Al Capone behind the bars, revealed that police have a definite group of men under suspicion as the kidnapers. Wilson refused to divulge their identities.

Accused Means Aide Waives Extradition

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Norman Whitaker, "The Fox," who is accused of posing as the Lindbergh baby kidnaper while Gaston B. Means swindled Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $104,000, waived extradition yesterday and agreed to go to Washington for trial.

History in Making With Repeal Vote, Declares Bowers

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fourth in a series of articles on the Democratic national convention by Claude G. Bowers, noted Democratic leader, keynoter in 1928, and author of many books on the history of democracy. His articles on the convention are carried exclusively by International News Service.)

By CLAUDE G. BOWERS
(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.)

CHICAGO, June 30.—(INS.)—The Democrats went down the Main street on prohibition with a plank demanding repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and the immediate modification of the Volstead Act. The minority offered a submission plank with no reference to the Volstead Act.

Mr. Bowers

Former Senator Hitchcock, reading the shortest and most meaningful platform in generations, was greeted with a fusilade of cheers, for each plank was a clearcut declaration on a vital issue.

That on the cancellation of the debts brought a demonstration.

But it was the Eighteenth Amendment plank that brought the storm; and for many minutes it raged, men standing, shouting, singing, marching, bearing standards.

Then the debate. Walsh, of Massachusetts, a forceful orator, spoke with vehemence and eloquence denouncing pussyfooting, demanding a definite declaration. Cordell Hull appealed for the minority report; but the very air seemed to pulsate with hostility to his cause.

Wild Smith Welcome

He appeared in the rear of Chairman Walsh. His face glowed with a smile. The delegates sprang to their feet, stood on their chairs, shouted, cheered; and the great organ blared forth with "The Sidewalks of New York" and many joined in singing the song. The standards of numerous states began a procession around the hall.

Walsh was before the microphone waiting patiently. Smith stood a little behind him. There were tears in his eyes. At first he was pleased; but as the ovation continued he was deeply moved. It was an Al Smith I have never seen before.

Here was a prophet who had been stoned; and he looked on as the stones were made into a monument to commemorate the triumph of his fight, the realization of his prophecy. He spoke in characteristic fashion, with the old flashes of humor.

As speaker after speaker from the South appeared on the platform for the majority report everyone had the feeling that a revolution had been wrought . . . Ritchie appeared, and was given a notable ovation . . . Shouse, defeated for the chairmanship, had his triumph . . . others joined the procession.

History in Making

Here was history in the making.

Here before one's eyes was the definite, inevitable passing of the Eighteenth Amendment from the Constitution it had brought into disrepute in the minds of millions.

Thus the issue on the Eighteenth Amendment is made, clearcut, unescapable, and the utterly dishonest, double-dealing, hypocritical concoction that Ogden Mills, with the official retainers of Mr. Hoover, forced into the Republican platform, is met foursquare with a declaration that is bold and honest.

But the platform was not confined to prohibition. It dealt with the vital economic issues—the most forthright enunciation of principles and policies that has come from a convention in many a day.

Democrat Never Adjourns, Fights Until Finish

why some of these deligates will become so hungry they will vote for the first man with a ham sandwich.

Ham Lewis' Illinois delegates are begging him to take 'em back. They haven't been able to make any better connections.

The deligates in these big hotels are begging to move from the dining room into the coffee shop.

The telephone bills from here to Gov. Roosevelt will cost more than the Democrats will make out of it if they are elected.

I tried to get the platform committee to just send in the first plank in the platform. That would keep 'em fighting for the rest of the day.

But everybody was in good spirits. They have learned where all the places are now and everybody feels at home.

I am still trying to get the floor to nominate Coolidge. Democrats did better under him than anybody we ever had in.

Met Melvin Traylor for the first time yesterday. He is a very able fellow that is thought very highly of by lots of good Democrats.

He was able to be away from his bank here and in the hall, so that speaks well for a modern banker.

Chicago is on her very good behaviour. There hasn't been a soul shot. No devilment of any kind.

It's been a fine convention, nobody nominated, nothing done. But what difference does it make. After all we are just Democrats.

DRY STATUTE'S CO-AUTHOR FOR POLL

Sheppard for Resubmission Of Prohibition Law; Norris Backing Change

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—A colossal blow to the extreme dry cause was dealt today when Senator Morris Sheppard (Dem.), of Texas, co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment, declared for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment for repeal. His statement followed quickly after that of Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, for modification of the dry laws.

Sheppard's statement was qualified, however, by the proviso that if the Democratic primary referendum to be held in Texas next month opposes repeal, he will not vote for resubmission of the amendment. He also said he would not vote for modification of the Volstead act while the Eighteenth Amendment still is in force.

At the same time Senator Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, declared that as soon as the Democratic senators return from Chicago where their party overwhelmingly adopted a dripping wet plank, he will call up his 4 per cent beer bill now on the calendar.

The bill will come before the Senate on an adverse report.

EXPLAINS BILL

A modification bill has an excellent chance to be enacted at the present session, unless a hurried adjournment prevents its consideration, Senator Bingham asserted. Regarding his beer bill, he said:

"It provides for 4 per cent beer by volume or 3.2 per cent by weight. A tax of $6 per barrel on beer is on the federal statute books at the present time. It was levied in 1917 and has never been repealed."

Bingham also declared he will move to call from the Senate table his resolution for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

This joint resolution would wipe the Eighteenth Amendment out of the Constitution and substitute in its stead a portion of the old Webb-Kenyon act which was written into law as a means of protecting the dry states from liquor importations.

NORRIS FOR CHANGE

The declaration by Senator Norris in favor of modification was hailed jubilantly by the anti-drys. Norris is chairman of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee, which has consistently blocked efforts toward modification. He has fought in behalf of the dry cause for years.

Admitting that "enforcement seems to be a failure," the Senator declared:

"If we are going to try another experiment, we could give a different definition to intoxicating liquor by increasing the alcoholic content. That will enable Congress to tax any beverage with an alcoholic content below the definition.

"I am not sure but what that is the best way, and incidentally it would bring in new revenue, and that appeals to me now."

Rumors that the White House might join in a movement to restore light wines and beer, thus insuring a huge tax revenue to meet the $3,000,000,000 deficit rolled up during this fiscal year, filtered through the Capitol. Although lacking in substance, these rumors emphasized the rapidly growing conviction that Congress will act to meet the popular demand for liberalization of the dry law.

PLANE BOMBS STRIKE 'NAVY'

POWHATAN, O., June 30.—A land, water and air battle here today, the second this week, lasted 15 minutes and resulted in rout of a flotilla of mine strike pickets which had attacked a convoy of workers crossing the Ohio River to the Powhatan mine.

Lieut. John Busong, of Ohio National Guard air forces, scored a direct hit on a "battleship" of the enemy with a tear gas bomb. The crew escaped.

A heavy fog lifted from the river and revealed to the plane the position of strikers and workers. The air force went into action in conjunction with the land forces along the river. Fifteen boats and 60 men were engaged.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., June 30.—(AP.)—Six hundred striking pickets attacked a caravan of working miners at the Monongah mine early today and were driven off when the miners wielded pick handles. They were reinforced by state police. Several were injured and eight men arrested. At Rivesville mine, Corp. Minnick, of the state police, was beaten.

PLATFORM NEEDS REINFORCEMENT, BRISBANE ASSERTS

REPEAL PLANK STIRS HOPE FOR BEER AND WINE BY CHRISTMAS, HE SAYS

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, June 30.—For lack of political activity the convention management entertained yesterday afternoon's crowd with what Mr. Connolly, of Universal Service and International News called "a vaudeville show."

Distinguished ladies and gentlemen were called to the platform to sing or talk. Clarence Darrow, great criminal lawyer, spoke in the deep earnest voice that has made many a murderer ask himself:

"Did I really do it? The way he talks I guess I didn't, I must have been dreaming."

Will Rogers philosophized, his school a cross between Epictetus and Epicurus. Amos and Andy were loudly applauded, although in real life they are not black.

Gene Tunney was cheered by all young Americans in the hall and by the old as well. He has wisdom, knew enough to stop at the top and to change slightly the words of his favorite poet, he "packs a wallop at his back."

Politicians and other distinguished individuals came and bowed politely by request. They included Max D. Steuer, who knows the inside of a jury's mind better than Copernicus knew the solar system.

As Clarence Darrow rescues the criminal that has slain one, Steuer rescues the corporation that has slain ten thousand. Eddie Dowling entertained, a lady sang, a quartet sang.

New Job for Walsh

Senator Walsh, permanent chairman, good-naturedly supervised the improvised vaudeville, a little puzzled. It was, as Damon Runyon observed, "the first time Senator Walsh ever presided over a night club."

After the entertainment, well worth the price that spectators paid for their seats, a patriotic tune was played, everybody was sent home, told to return at 7 in the evening.

As the crowd poured onto the sidewalk it encountered entertainment far superior to the "inside show." The "yeoman band of Oklahoma," was passing, making the welkin ring and carrying signs "for Alfalfa Bill of Oklahoma." You will be surprised to learn that the "yeoman" were young Oklahoma ladies, playing every known instrument, wearing patent leather slippers with heels not too high for street wear.

They had beautiful uniforms, and were so thin and wiry you could have put any one inside the umbrella stand in your front hall.

The Tambour major kept her shoulders back and lifted her knees high, throwing her stick 20 feet into the air. She has an Oklahoma eagle's eye, and as for the little lady carrying a bass drum, as heavy as herself and twice as big, she was too wonderful for this planet. She leaned far back, understanding the laws of leverage, and did the impossible. With the club in her right hand she hit the LEFT side of the drum, and with the left hand club she hit the right hand side of the drum.

Stuart's Platform Beat

"Alfalfa Bill's" bass drum lady is quite remarkable at that. All in a row, some drumming, some fifing, some blowing the bugle, all beautiful, they marched out of sight, but will never march out of memory.

That is all about the first session of the convention's third day, but it is not the real news. That was contributed by William H. Stuart, political writer for W. R. Hearst's Chicago American, who scored a complete "beat" on the full text of the Democratic platform and printed it for convention visitors, all Chicago and a majority of delegates to see it for the first time.

There are two kinds of concrete work, one made of cement with only sand and gravel in it. The other "REINFORCED," with bars of steel. The reinforced kind has real strength, carries weight and endures.

Reinforcement is lacking here and there in the Democratic platform.

It has one conspicuous merit. It is the shortest platform, Democratic or Republican, in the memory of man.

Short as it is, more than half the people will fail to read it through. That is how we take our politics.

It wobbles on adherence to the world court, which is the League of Nation's back door, talking about adhering "with the pending reservations." Our Supreme Court is no longer good enough for either party.

There is talk of regulating banks and regulating stock.

Beer for Christmas

Gov. Roosevelt sent word to his representatives here not to interfere with delegates in their discussion of prohibition, and that plank may arouse hope for beer and light wine in time for Christmas.

The platform demands "reduction of armaments." It would have done better to declare for United States armament sufficient to make it a matter of indifference to us, what other nations might do.

The platform says our "unprecedented economic and social distress" has been caused by "policies pursued by our government since the World War." That government, as you know, has been entirely Republican since the war.

Democrats seem not to suspect that the war itself, killing twenty million men, spending two hundred and fifty billion dollars, may have had something to do with our troubles.

Wicked Republicans

Democrats discover that Republicans have ruined our foreign trade and encouraged monopolists, and all our economic troubles are caused by Republican foolishness, wickedness and corruption, SINCE THE WAR. You wonder why all the other nations in the world have had the same kind of trouble. They had no Republican party to ruin them.

The platform recommends and promises good things.

It promises to cut expenses.

It would help agriculture, but would not let government meddle with farming. The French government meddles decidedly and French farmers get $1.50 a bushel for wheat while North Dakota farmers get 30 cents.

The platform declared for "an army and navy adequate for national defense," but shivers at the thought of "an expenditure fast approaching a billion dollars annually."

When we were caught unprepared in the other war, it cost us $10,000,000,000 right away, and ten billions a year right along. There is such a thing as "false economy." As a matter of fact, however, the RIGHT KIND OF DEFENSE IN THE AIR AND UNDER THE WATER would cost little and make the world fear and respect us.

But it is not what delegates say or write in a platform before election that counts.

CHICAGO, June 30.—(AP.)—Gate crashers found the going tough at the Democratic convention today after last night's jam in which thousands of rightful holders of tickets were denied admittance because others had usurped their seats.

Twenty-two thousand persons, it was estimated, squeezed into the stadium to hear the prohibition debate, but outside a frenzied throng threatened riot in protest against orders of the Fire Department that no more be admitted.

One gate was smashed, others thrown open by main force. Police were pushed about and clothes were torn. A hundred reservists finally restored order.

The principal causes of the confusion, police officials said, was forgery of about 10,000 "courtesy cards" bearing Mayor Cermak's name. Doorkeepers were given strict orders to look for them today. Thousands, police said, have been sold to unsuspecting buyers.

Amid the confusion, 50 Chicagoans, scampering like monkeys, took to a fire escape. Someone offered money to a newsboy if he would climb the fire escape and bring the end down.

The lad carried out his part of the agreement, but when the end touched the ground he was pushed aside by the crowd which scampered up the steps and into the building.

He shouted for his money. Then he cried for it. But he didn't get it.

Two Kidnap Wealthy Manufacturer's Son

ST. PAUL, June 30.—(AP.)—Two men took Haskell Bohn, 21, son of a wealthy refrigeator manufacturer, away in an automobile today. The police said he had been kidnaped.

TAMMANY CHIEF COVETS TUNNEY

CHICAGO, June 30.—(INS.)—In the whirl of the Hotel Stevens lobby just before the convention convened today, John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, came around a marble colmun and all but collided with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney. Gene presented Tammany leader to Mrs. Tunney.

As the handsome young couple swept on their way, the leader of Manhattan's Democracy gazed long and reflectively at the broad disappearing shoulders of Gene. He murmured:

"He has everything, brains, fame, money, voice, ambition, a bright, beautiful and ambitious wife. How a young Democrat like Tunney would decorate a Manhattan seat, say, in Congress. Page bay! Stop Mrs. Tunney before she gets out. I want just a word with her."

Leader Curry had his earnest talk with Mrs. Tunney, Gene autographing cards for fans meanwhile. And then Mrs. Tunney went on her way to the convention with Gene, a thoughtful look in her eye.

Vice Presidency Offer Brings Dire Threats

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

CHICAGO, June 30.—How would you like to be vice president and spend the next four years wondering what laundry has got your sox?

If you want this neat position just step up to Jim Farley, tag him and holler,

"I'm it."

In return you must solemnly swear, testify and affirm that you will support Franklin Roosevelt for the Democratic citation.

That's all. You don't even have to be a delegate. Mr. Farley has already asked all the delegates. And they have all replied in the negative, the notative and the nertzative.

Jim started by asking the most prominent citizens. But by tomorrow he will be doing missionary work among the Boy Scouts.

Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, was the first prospect approached by Farley. And Huey's reply was shortened more from indignation than from cloture.

Mr. Senator Long speaking:

"Suh, the term of Vice President as applied to a southern gentleman is a fighting word. I would rather be a small oyster in the gulf than a large one in a stew. Repeat that, suh, and it will be coffee and pistols for us in the morning."

Wild Bill Murray's reaction was almost the same. The next voice you will hear will be that of Gov. Murray.

Gov. Murray now on the air:

"I would rather be a poor man's bride than be hung with diamonds from here to there, Mr. Farley. I was born in the West, where men are men and boys are incorrigible. I'm a little prairie flower growing wilder every hour. I would rather spend my declining years under the Oklahoma skies than grow old and gray in the news reels."

Gov. White of Ohio:

"Mr. Farley, I have led an honorable, industrious life. Why should I accept your offer and grow a long, white beard at the public's expense?"

Newt Baker feels the same way:

Gov. Ritchie:

"As Governor of Maryland I give myself a last-minute reprieve."

Speaker Garner:

"I don't intend to spend the next four years counting the buttons on another man's coattails."

Chairman Shouse:

"I'm a chairman without a chair. Why should I take a hyphenated title of vice president? The last half of the word means nothing. And I can get raided for the first half."

SMITH, RITCHIE DEAL RUMORED

CHICAGO, June 30.—(INS.)—Talk of a deal between former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Tammany Chieftain John F. Curry, whereby their combined forces would line up behind Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, in a final drive to head off Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt from the presidential nomination, was rife today.

A proposal under which Smith would withdraw as a candidate after the second ballot if, in the meantime, Roosevelt had not made the two-thirds grade, and the combined strength thrown to the Maryland executive, is reported to have been "suggested" to Smith by a spokesman for Curry.

Smith, according to the same information, has not yet given his answer.

PLANK BACKED BY ROOSEVELT

CHICAGO, June 30.—(AP.)—Gov. Franklin Roosevelt today indorsed the wet plank adopted last nightby the Democratic convention.

In a telegram to James A. Farley, the Roosevelt campaign manager, the New York Governor said the country and the party ought to be congratulated on the platform and that he was for the prohibition plank, which he said was substantially the same as one on which he ran for the governorship two years ago.

The telegram reads:

"The country and the party ought to be congratulated on the shortest, clearest and most readable platform in our whole history. I am glad the will of the party was shown on the majority prohibition plank by such a definite majority. I am for it. It is substantially the same plank I ran on in this state two years ago."

SMITH THRILLS DELEGATES IN COMEBACK

'Return from Elba,' Says Gibbons; Old Fire Still There, Crowd Goes Wild

By FLOYD GIBBONS

CHICAGO, June 30.—Hello everybody.

Looked for a while last night like things might be sliding in Al Smith's direction. Most people I've talked to sort of thought Al had been counted out till he returned to the platform after four long years.

And say, I guess we've all heard about famous comebacks. But when Al stepped into the spotlight last night for the first time, it was a genuine thriller.

Mr. Gibbons

It was the return from Elba.

You could see Al's face as he stood there taking nearly 10 minutes of cheers and applause—listening to his old campaign tunes—fumbling at his tie—that he was smelling the smoke of battle again.

RAKES CORDELL HULL

Back came the old fire, too, when he sailed into Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, and ripped his anti-repeal speech to shreds.

But there was a pathetic note in his voice when he said:

"In 1928 I was four years ahead of my time on repeal. And look what happened to me."

Al must have felt the old thrill of victory when Mike Igoe, the Democratic leader in Illinois, rose up and roared:

"I followed Al Smith gladly four years ago and I am proud to follow him again."

And you ought to see the Tammany cabinet. Ten of the most noted lawyers in New York. John W. Davis, Sam Untermeyer, George Gordon Battle, Max Steuer, Dudley Field Malone, Jimmie Gerard, Judge Olvaney, Jimmie Walker, District Attorney Crain, Judge Colahan—well, that's all I could count from where I sat.

But there's one thing sure. With all that legal talent behind him, Al could doggoned nearly steal the Stadium and get away with it.

'Alfalfa Bill' Friend of Vets

By Floyd Gibbons

(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, June 30.—Hello, you ragged, hungry, jobless veterans of the bonus army down there on the Potomac.

He's a friend who wasn't afraid to step up and ask for your bonus money. And he's down there on the floor right now, fighting for you. He has some able lieutenants on his staff, too. Congressman Connery, of Massachusetts, and Congressman John A. Rankin, of Mississippi and chairman of the War Veterans' Committee in the House, are two of them.

Well, maybe you didn't expect help from a plain old rip-snorter like Alfalfa Bill. But there's kindliness in Bill's blue eyes and honesty in his voice, and—well, anyway, he thought enough of you boys of 1917 to write out an additional plank for the Democratic platform putting the party on record as favoring the payment of the bonus at once. Signed it himself and had enough influence to get it before the convention along with some good, red hot speeches in favor of it.

The convention is going to vote on that bonus plank today. But, if it isn't adopted, it won't be Alfalfa Bill's fault. He's still with you.

Yes sir, there were some sizzling speeches that went with that plank.

John Rankin's speech would have made you boys down there on the Potomac happy. Sounded something like the old bugle call on payday.

Rankin told that convention that it's not only you fellows who are out of work and hungry. Said millions of other men are walking the streets.

That Mississippi Congressman argued that if Uncle Sam paid the rest of the bonus now, it would go straight into the marts of trade and just naturally start people working again. Rankin said there are 24,000 of you in Washington now—sleeping out of doors, out of rations—everybody against you.

So boys, keep your eye on the papers. We'll see today what happens to that proposition your friend, Alfalfa Bill Murray started.

PROGRESS SEEN IN REPARATION TITLE CHANGE

Germany Willing to Pay for 'Reconstruction,' France to Balk If U. S. Collects

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

LAUSANNE, June 30.—The first big step toward solving the tangled problem of reparations appeared imminent today.

A special committee of the Lausanne conference, meeting under the presidency of Prime Minister J. Ramsey MacDonald, agreed as the first measure to strike the word "reparations" from common international usage and substitute in its stead the appellation: "Germany's contribution to the reconstruction of Europe.

NEW FRENCH BARRIER

While German delegates confirmed their nation's willingness to make a lump settlement toward this "reconstruction" if a definite sum could be agreed upon, the French placed a new stumbling in the way of success by raising the specter of an "escape clause" if the United States insists upon payment of war debts.

Action of the MacDonald committee was hailed as an important psychological factor as removing from Germany the stigma of paying for damages done in the World War.

It was learned that an invitation would be issued to the United States to send representatives to participate in two sub-committees charged with studying economic and financial reorganization, chiefly gold credit and commercial relations, particularly as regards to wheat production and distribution.

U. S. ACTION SOUGHT

League of Nations experts also will be invited, but formation of the sub-committees will await solution of reparations. The sub-committees may sit elsewhere than Lausanne in deference to America's desires not to be involved in the reparations parley. Despite the fact they are alluded to merely as sub-committees, their deliberations are expected to develop into an important economic conference.

Illinois Decision Hits Reno Divorces

URBANA, Ill., June 30.—(AP.)—Circuit Judge Frank B. Leonard has ruled that a husband paying alimony on a separate maintenance decree granted by an Illinois court could not discharge this obligation by obtaining a divorce in another state.

The ruling, affecting the status of divorce decrees won in Reno, Nev., was made yesterday in refusing the petition of H. Fred Janssen, Springfield florist, who sought to avoid payment of $1,000 a year to his wife, Clara L. Janssen, on grounds that he had obtained a divorce in Reno.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—Falling down a 45-foot well in the rear of her home, Mrs. Theresa Rogozus, 40, was fatally injured yesterday. Mrs. Rogozus lost her balance as she endeavored to grab a bucket of water which had dropped.

Ex-Fireman Freed On Firework Charge

Carl Reibel, 39, former city fireman, of 52 South Twenty-seventh street, was discharged by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in South Side police court today. Patrolman Carl Smith testified Reibel was shooting off fireworks in violation of a city ordinance.

Reibel denied this, saying he only had the fireworks in his possession.

Women Here Named In New York Will

Two Pittsburgh women are beneficiaries in the will of William J. Patterson, an attorney, of New York, according to an Associated Press dispatch. STATE ECONOMY PLANS KEPT SECRET

Legislature Veils Details on Expense Cut Program to Block Victims' Protests

By WILLIAM B. BROWN
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, June 30.—Hoping to block any concerted protest from those affected, members of the Legislature today had thrown a guard of secrecy around details of all plans pertaining to the cuts in government cost which will be effected by legislative enactment.

Meanwhile, almost everyone on the state payroll, from the governor's office staff down is wondering just where the ax of legislative displeasure will fall.

Many plans for reduction of what now are regarded as "useless appendages" have been discussed but mainly such discussion gets back to several proposals which a large group of members still hope to make effective.

COUNCIL OPPOSED

Although 150 nicely-engraved certificates denoting membership on the Greater Pennsylvania Council have been distributed in the state, that body seems to have fewer friends about the capitol than any other branch of government. Members of the Council get nothing more than the certificate of appointment, but the paid personnel in Harrisburg is coming in for much criticism.

Next in line as a branch of questionable value at present, in the opinion of many legislators, is the Aeronautics Commission, which duplicates, to a large extent, the work done by federal authorities.

Members unfriendly to the commission charge that in addition to serving no useful purpose it has expended the appropriation at its disposal in acquiring a string of landing fields which really should have been bought by a large commercial line which benefits by their existence.

WORKERS ANXIOUS

Discussion of the possibility of abolishing the Departments of Welfare and Revenue continues. In addition, at least a score of departmental bureaus, whose work is believed to overlap or to be almost valueless, are certain to come before legislative scrutiny.

State workers also are watching the Legislature to see whether they will be expected to bear the full brunt of proposed economy. It is known that real economy in the home districts, like consolidation of counties and judicial districts, is regarded in many quarters as the quickest way of lightening local tax burdens, but few, if any, members of the Legislature came to even discuss such moves openly.

Proposals to reduce teachers' salaries and the pay of judges already are before the Legislature, but how far they will progress none cares to forecast.

Crash Causes 'Gas' Blaze on Boulevard

Knocked over by an automobile, a gasoline pump in the Greenstein Service Station, 3260 Bigelow boulevard, ignited during the peak traffic hour this morning. Firemen extinguished the blaze before it could spread to adjoining pumps.

Two Robbers Battle Posse in Woods

KITTANING, Pa., June 30.—Two robbers, detected in the John Calhoun store at Goheenville, shot their way to liberty early today. Calhoun summoned two neighbors who surprised the robbers, but they ignored a command to surrender and fired. A posse of farmers aroused by the shots, followed the men into the woods, where the shooting continued. State police joined in the hunt later.

Grotto Conference Names Alabama Man

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 30.—(AP.)—Lamar Field, of Anniston, Ala., was elected grand monarch of the Mystic Order of the Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, at the forty-third annual conference of the order here yesterday. He succeeds Charles E. Minsinger, of Portland, Ore.

A three-cornered fight for the office of grand veiled prophet was won by Judge Edward Smith, of Brooklyn. Youngstown, O., was announced as the winner of the choral contest.

If you note the superior fabrics, and go no further, you'll know how special this price is! . . . Lama silk, that new, pure silk sports fabric woven by the monks of Tibet; and Damask Crepe, a fine, dull semi-rough weave, with self-colored designs in lustrous relief.

The lama silk is in active and spectator sports frocks made in the state of California, and showing the influence of charming, outdoor life on the West Coast. In white, pastels, or white with colored embroidered dots . . . Sizes 12 to 42.

The damask crepe, in white, maize, pastel blue and pink, comes in women's jacket frocks, sizes 34 to 46.

GALA NIGHT ON AIR -:- Dominion Day Tributes Paid to Canada -:- WINCHELL, WHITEMAN

Mary Pickford, Fairbanks Extend Olympic Games Welcome Over WCAE

Inaugurating its new 18-hour daily schedule, whereby the station remains on the air until 1 a. m., WCAE broadcasts a gala special program starring Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Gov. James Rolph, Jr., and officials and athletes gathered in California for the Olympic games tonight at midnight.

The program, carried over a nation-wide NBC network, is presented under the title "Come to the Olympic Games" and originates in the Olympic Stadium in Los Angeles and in the Hollywood Bowl. Music by massed bands of more than 1,000 pieces, a chorus of 200 voices, a drum and bugle corps and the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra is heard during the broadcast. Speakers, in addition to Miss Pickford, "Doug" and Gov. Rolph, include Zack Farmer, of the Olympic games committee, and William Garland, of Los Angeles.

Miss Pickford

Miss Manno

An international broadcast of Dominion Day ceremonies at the Savoy Hotel, London, with addresses by a group of internationally prominent figures, is scheduled on WJAS from 4:35 to 4:50 today. The Prince of Wales, previously scheduled to speak, was forced to cancel his appearance due to illness.

A second Dominion Day program, originating in the studios of KDKA, goes over a nation-wide NBC network and associate stations in Canada tonight at midnight. The program is presented by the KDKA Orchestra, directed by Zoel Parenteau; the Strollers' Quartet, KDKA Choral ensemble directed by Aneurin Bodycomb, and Fred Weber, narrator.

Program Pointers

The new Boat Club Dance series, which replaces the Sherlock Holmes stories over an NBC network, including WCAE, featuring Billy Artzt's Orchestra, Allyn Joslyn, Sylvia Field and the Foursome, makes its bow tonight at 9:30 . . . Georgie Price gives his impression of how Eddie Cantor, Al Jolson and Maurice Chevalier would sing the same song, and offers new verses of "Imagine My Embarrassment," some of which were contributed by listeners, during his program with Benny Krueger's Orchestra on WJAS at 7:45.

Mr. Joslyn

Sidney Skolsky, Broadway columnist, inaugurates a new series of broadcasts, "Broadway Tintypes," on WJAS tonight at 8:30.

The Strollers Quartet, composed of Gene Baldridge, J. Dickson Fulton, tenors; Reed Kennedy, baritone, and Russell Mitchell, bass, presents the "Silhouettes" program over an NBC chain from KDKA today at 4.

The dinner concerts by Gregario Scalzo's ensemble on KQV each night have been extended on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from a half-hour to an hour, and on the remaining weekdays to 45 minutes. Tonight's concert is heard from 6 to 7.

Another organ recital by Frederic Lotz is scheduled on WWSW at 7.

The Mills Brothers, going on the air from Chicago, and Victor Young's Orchestra, from New York, offer the quartet novelty "Old Yazoo" and a revival of "Japanese Sandman" on WJAS at 9:15.

Fan Fare

Here we have Miss Sarah Manno, soprano frequently heard from KQV. She is featured on the KQV Artists program every Sunday, and on Musical Vignettes every Tuesday, in addition to two other weekly programs . . . Jack Denny and his band haven't had a day's vacation in 11 years . . . and during that time they've played at only three different places . . . Brad Browne and Al Llewelyn started to motor up to New London to see the boat races last weekend, but were so enchanted with the Woodland scenery along the route they spent the entire day walking among the trees.

The musicians in Nat Shilkret's orchestra thought they were in for a laugh when Jimmy Dorsey, one of the saxophonists, picked up a trumpet to double for Del Staigers, who was late for a recent week-end program . . . Nat was frantic . . . but Dorsey stepped up, played the opening cadenz beautifully and saved the situation.

During their recent stay in Chicago for a vaudeville appearance, the four Mills Brothers one day spent so much time tinkering with their car that they had to go to the studio for the broadcast in their working clothes . . . and the doorman refused them admittance until they proved who they were by some generous samples of harmony.

David Patterson, the "Park Bench Philosopher" at KQV, told his audience the other day that, to him, the initials G. O. P. mean "Goofy Over Prohibition."

Announcers at WWSW now have to listen to their own voices . . . A recording machine has been installed in one of the studios, where a record is made of each man's voice to correct diction, intonation and inflection.

Accuse Rail Sleuth In Killing of Vet

MARION, N. C., June 30.—(AP.)—J. W. Phillips, of Houston, Tex., and Arthur Horton, of Arkansas, testified in Superior Court yesterday that A. W. Banks fired into a group of homeward bound bonus marchers, fatally wounding Louis Chiapetta, of Houston, without provocation.

BANDIT FIGHTER HIT WITH GUN

In the eyes of Florence Leckey, 22, pretty department store employe, Edward Blaha, 29, of Bellevue, is a hero, even though he wasn't able to frustrate a holdup and robbery yesterday.

Miss Leckey, who resides in Glenshaw, reported to County Detectives John Carmichael and Albert Shedlock that as she and Blaha were riding in an automobile along the Kleber road near Glenshaw yesterday afternoon, when three armed men alighted from a car and held them up.

Blaha leaped from his car and bowled over one of the robbers. Another holdup man stunned Blaha with his revolver butt. The three then escaped with Miss Leckey's diamond ring and $7.50 cash, she said.

Detectives said the robbers apparently were the same band blamed for numerous recent daylight holdups, mostly on unfrequented roads.

RUNYON HAILS BIG SPLASH OF DEMOCRATS

Some Delegates Fail to Appreciate Plunge Into Moisture of Repeal Stand

By DAMON RUNYON

CHICAGO, June 30.—Now we're all wet.

At 1 o'clock this morning, the great democracy shuts its eyes, holds its breath and slides down a beer-slippery party plank into the wet tank.

Indeed, some of them like it so little that we are all awash with words for hours, while they pull back from the big dive. But they're all in now, paddling around like good fellows.

Immediate repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act so we can bury our noses in suds forthwith is demanded in a platform that carries after much bloviating by a vote of 934¾ to 213¼.

OVATION FOR SMITH

During the windjamming, Al Smith, of New York, displays his breeze-browned features to the convention, and precipitates a demonstration that almost lifts the roof off the Chicago Stadium, while Gov. Ritchie, that immaculate man who is the pride and joy of Maryland, also gets a grand ovation.

These gentlemen are both candidates for the nomination for President. They both speak with great vehemence for the wet plank. They get cheers and much attention, while poor Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, and stout Mr. W. A. Pitts, of Alabama, struggling in the heat for a plank smelling less of hops, get only the Bronx cheer.

The democracy, having made up its mind to have its grog, is very impatient with these well meaning gents for suggesting moderation. We even have the spectacle of representatives of the South, where you can't get as much as a sniff of liquor unless you know the spots, speaking enthusiastically for John Barleycorn.

TACTICS ROUGH

The delegates are most unfair and unsportsmanlike in their attitude toward the speakers who do not like the platform as reported in by the majority of the platform committee. They try to howl 'em down. They emit cat calls and cries of "sit down."

A few years ago some of the same delegates were yelling the same cry at speakers for wetness, but now there is a mad scramble to get on the band wagon.

It is one of the gabbiest sessions in history. Blah, blah, blah—hour after hour it goes on. Many of the old-time spell-binders of the Democracy are in action, including "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, another candidate for the presidential nomination, who has a job lot of ideas that he wishes to get into the party platform.

It is 12:10 o'clock, Chicago time, which is 1:10 New York time and noon in China, when they get to the vote on the wet plank with a lot of windjamming yet to come, and with Senator Walsh suspending a batch of rules to get around to it.

STAMPEDE FOR RUM

The vote is by rollcall of states, and the stampede is evident early in the call. Connecticut casts ¼ vote against the wetness. This is paring it close. Georgia wins a big booby, voting 28 votes against. Georgia is under the unit rule.

A lady announces in a rich contralto that Illinois "emphatically and enthusiastically votes 59 no" which means for the wet plank. An Indiana delegate makes a regular speech casting his 30 votes the same way and Iowa follows suit. Kansas has 12 for and eight against. Kentucky is completely wet. If the Democrats can carry the states the same way they vote now, we'll have that beer very soon.

New York, all together for the first time on anything, casts 94 votes wet. The convention is kept into the early morning hours by wrangling over the votes of the Idaho and Minnesota delegations. Both insist on polls. It seems most ridiculous, but it is the rule. The final result is 934¾ to 213¾.

At 1 a. m., the convention adjourns until noon.

A nice, cool, breaker of the beer that, figuratively speaking, they poured over the platform would have been greatly appreciated by many of the delegates frying in their own fat in the stadium.

Phew, was it hot!

It was hot outside and hotter inside, because of the hot air emitted by the orators for and against John Barleycorn.

DRY CHIEFTAINS STUNNED BY REVOLT

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 30.—Leaders of the nation's dry organizations were plainly shocked today by the overwhelming vote of the Democratic national convention for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Although they planned to await the Democratic presidential nomination before making a formal statement on their position in the campaign, hints of a third-party movement cropped out in their vehement private declarations.

The dry organizations, represented by the Board of Strategy of 30 national prohibition organizations and the Allied Forces of Prohibition, came to both the Republican and Democratic conventions in Chicago demanding that the parties declare for enforcement of all laws, including the prohibition statute.

POLING'S DENUNCIATION

Daniel A. Poling, of New York, chairman of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, who conducted a nation-wide campaign for dry delegates to the conventions, was outspoken, however, in his denunciation of the Democratic plank. Poling said:

"That is a wringing wet plank that will satisfy no dry, moderate or liberal, and will, I think, so divide the strength of the Democratic party as to make its success impossible."

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., militant dry crusader, and William Sheafe Case, of the International Reform Federation, both expressed deep interest in the Democratic plank, but said they were bound by the dry rule of secrecy until after a presidential candidate is named or the joint dry board of strategy authorizes a statement.

AMAZED BY BOLTS

The dry leaders were amazed at the switch of many rock-ribbed southern and western states to the wet banner.

Among the wet states in the convention were California, Florida, Iowa, Maine, Nebraska, South Carolina, Texas and Washington, heretofore considered strong dry territory.

The only solid delegations against repeal were Georgia, Oklahoma and Mississippi. Virginia, Bishop Cannon's home state, voted dry 13 to 1.

The Democratic convention vote—if representative—disclosed that anti-dry sentiment has made deep inroads in the agricultural territory of the nation, especially the South and West.

Firemen Rescue Street Cleaner From Wall

Firemen of No. 44 engine house rescued a North Side street cleaner, who was trying a little steeple-jacking on his day off and became frightened while 15 feet from the ground.

The rescued man, John Elm, 47, 1434 Steadman street, was climbing a short ladder over a cement wall enclosing gasoline tanks at a gas station at Island avenue and Chateau street when he lost his nerve and "froze" to the ladder. Yardman T. T. Wilker, who had hired Elm to do a little extra cleaning around the station, tried to get the street cleaner down, but Elm would not budge. Firemen were called and a few minutes later the street cleaner was back on the street, vowing never to climb another ladder.

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 30.—Manager L. T. Houghton, of the Orpheum Theater, today paid a fine of $18.75 for himself and two employes, on a new charge of violating the Sunday blue laws. He said:

"It is rank persecution. No action was taken against other businesses operating here Sunday."

Houghton had been appearing before a rural justice each Monday to pay a fine of $21 for himself and employes. He says the justice told him not to appear and today County Detective Chester Beatty filed a new information.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—An increase of 433,656 in the membership of United States churches during 1931 is reported by Dr. G. L. Kieffer in the annual church statistics report of the Christian Herald. The gain in 1930 was 88,350.

The Baptists increased their membership 139,526 to bring their total, the largest among Protestant denominations, to 9,067,152. The Methodists, who showed the first annual loss in their history in 1930, again increased, by 46,225, for the year. Their total rose to 8,135,627.

The Catholic gain was 15,243. The total Catholic membership 13 years old and over was thereby brought to 14,528,176.

The Lutheran gain of 49,126 brought their total to 3,032,350, exclusive of communicants. The Protestant Episcopal increase was 6,931 for a total of 1,261,158. The Presbyterians gained 16,676 for a 2,557,541 total.

The only denominations having a million or more members to show a loss were the Congregationalist-Christian, with a 736 decrease and the Disciples of Christ with a 4,477 loss. Their totals were 1,010,341 and 1,865,979, respectively.

The total membership for all religious bodies in the United States in 1931 was given as 49,752,443.

Three of the Bledsoe children ended their stay of three weeks in Uniontown yesterday, departing with $175 in witness fees and the jewels which Charles L. Davidson, defense counsel, had seized from among the commonwealth exhibits one or two days before the close of the trial.

Bledsoe and Cosmo Stengoni were acquitted of the murder of John Donohoe last week.

Man Near Death, Serum Exhausted

BERKELEY, Cal., June 30.—(AP.)—Fred Daugherty, 24, lay critically ill with a rare form of blood poisoning here today, with his chances for recovery probably depending upon the delivery of a serum being manufactured in Cincinnati.

Dr. H. W. Crane telegraphed for a new supply of the serum after exhausting the first shipment, which greatly benefitted Daugherty. Dr. William B. Wherry, of the University of Cincinnati Medical College, replied:

"Supply gone. Process very slow. Working steadily and will rush by airplane as soon as possible."

Doctor's Formula Brings Down High Blood Pressure

Attacks the Basic Causes of This Dreaded Condition

Blood Pressure can be reduced and discomfort, suffering and fear eliminated with a simple herb medicine. So why experiment with harsh, drastic remedies which may, and often do, cause more harm than good?

An eminent French physician developed a formula of botanic and marine herbs, known here as Dr. Morel's No. 9, which for years he used in his practice to bring blessed relief to thousands. With this formula, taken as a simple tea, he reduced blood pressure and relieved such symptoms as fullness in the head, headache, ringing in the ears, dizziness, heart fluttering, exhaustion after slight effort, and intermittent pains about the heart.

Get yourself a box of Dr. Morel's No. 9 today. With the first cupful its helpful action begins. Soon pain and nerve tension and that feeling that some calamity impends, disappear, headaches, fullness, dizziness go—you feel as if a great weight had been lifted from you. Dr. Morel's No. 9 (in the green box, costing only 7c a day to take) is sold by Mayflower Drug Co. and other well-stocked drug stores.

ROGERS STEALS SPOTLIGHT IN CHICAGO

Comedians' Sallies Fill Platform Interludes; Tribute Paid to Bryan

By RUTH BRYAN OWEN,
Member of Congress and Daughter of William Jennings Bryan
(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO STADIUM, June 30.—Even if the platform committee was not ready with the real ammunition for yesterday afternoon session, the ticketholders at the Democratic convention got more than their money's worth.

A triple bill of Gene Tunney, Will Rogers and Amos and Andy with Eddie Dowling as impressario is worth a trip to the convention.

Several thousand radio fans today met Amos and Andy in person at the Stadium when they had expected to review a political platform.

It is no trick at all for Will Rogers also to walk away with a show like that. In fact, they might have dispensed with the recess and let Will Rogers go right on sending the audience into roars of laughter and then making them take a little homely philosophy and like it.

ROGERS AT BEST

After what I saw him do at a continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution a year ago I put nothing beyond Will Rogers in the spellbinding line.

When the Daughters of the Revolution assemble in their annual convention there is enough dignity and pomp and a solemn trooping of the colors to make the proudest ancestor a little set up over the organization of his descendants.

During their program last year, they called Will Rogers out onto the stage.

There were diplomats and high officials and the national officers of the D. A. R. with their bouquets and the blue ribbon of the order crossing from shoulder to waist.

I am certain that there is the strictest etiquette about the wearing of these blue ribbons, the badge of the regents and national officers.

Will Rogers hurried on to the platform with a blue ribbon across his own chest, and bouquet in his hand. While he poked delicious fun at us all, the ribbon began slipping lower and lower. Finally it had reached his waist and he hastily stuffed the ends into his pocket.

Having carried that audience with him in spite of a weight of dignity which has been accumulating ever since the American Revolution, stampeding a mere political convention was no feat at all for the redoubtable Will.

NOT ALL LAUGHTER

But it was not all laughter and music yesterday. Early in the morning there was a Bryan breakfast. It was almost a spontaneous gathering, a reunion of old friends bound by the tie of devoted memory to Democracy's leader in campaigns of other years.

Secretary Josephus Daniels spoke of the Chicago convention of 1896. He recalled the youthful figure of Mr. Bryan with waving black hair tossed back from a face alight with purpose. He recalled his vigor and courage and eloquence in words which spoke not only memory but friendship.

Hon. Huston Thompson in his speech so feelingly recalled the voice of Bryan that old friends who crowded the room did not hide the tears that rose.

Col. Patrick Callahan spoke from a full heart of years of loyal friendship? His tribute was to a clean life, fully lived.

Col. Raymond Robbin's eloquent speech struck deep at the root of the causes of our present problems, and paid tribute to the prophetic statesmanship of other years which had steadily held the helm of a party toward the open sea and away from the deadly menace of the reef and breaker.

Wayne Williams, of Denver, Col., as chairman of the gathering, proposed that for the next two hundred years no Democratic gathering shall lack the inspiration of an hour such as this devoted to the memory of a devoted Democrat. Josephus Daniels moved that the limit of 200 years be removed.

No, the convention is a place of memories, too. I have looked into the faces of some of the older men in the audience and fancied that they were hearing the echoes of other crowds, seeing the shadowy figures of other heroes and hearing again the music of voices now still.

CLAIMS PLENTY ON NOMINATION; NO FACTS

Roosevelt Leaders Hint At Acquisitions; Success On First Ballot Doubtful

By LOUIS SEIBOLD
(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, June 30.—Intensive efforts to co-ordinate presidential delegate blocs were under full headway in all parts of the convention hall last night.

Even before the echo of cheering over Al Smith's liberal program (edited by the Roosevelt Committee on Resolutions) had died away, the managers of all candidates for the presidential nomination were hard at work.

Despite reports to the contrary it was plain that the jam barring all candidates on the two-thirds rule was holding.

Conflicting claims to the contrary were apparently founded on just as secure grounds. One claim was just as good as another. None was backed by facts or convincing figures.

The rival managers, fighting their way through densely packed aisles, came out of the turmoil satisfied that their lines will hold.

It seems reasonably certain there will be no realignment of the forces supporting Roosevelt, Garner, Smith, Ritchie, White, Reed and Murray until after the managers of each have had a chance to do some more missionary work after the convention has swept the decks clear of everything else.

Some of the leaders were in favor of going right into the presidential dance after the debate on the platform. The great majority, however, was said to oppose this suggestion.

Making allowances for obviously extravagant claims it appeared reasonably certain that Roosevelt, barring unexpected changes, would be shy somewhere around 135 votes of the 770 necessary to nominate.

The claim of the candidates opposing Roosevelt, apparently reliable, was that more than 480 votes would be distributed among other candidates.

If these claims are upheld rival contenders will be able to prevent Roosevelt from being nominated on the first roll call.

BOARDS OPPOSE TAX OFFICE

Legislation that would abolish the office of County Delinquent Tax Collector was urged in a resolution adopted by the Allied Boards of Trade last night at a meeting in the Congress of Clubs. The resolution, presented by the organization's board of directors, recommended that the county taxes be collected by the Treasurer, as is the practice in the city.

Proposed legislation to enable local school boards to distribute state funds for the relief of undernourished children was indorsed on motion of Dr. A. L. Lewin, one of the directors of the organization. Dr. Lewin also is a member of the school board.

James D. White, chairman of a committee appointed to pass on the sale of the Wabash Bridge and tunnel to the county, reported against such a deal. The report was approved.

Woman, Pilot Hurt As Plane Hits House

CLEVELAND, June 30.—(AP.)—Striking with terrific impact, an airplane crashed into a Cleveland house last night, injuring two persons and doing extensive property damage.

The pilot, Louis H. Knichten, of Cleveland Heights, was unconscious when dragged from the wreckage. Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 30, seated in the living room when the plane burst into the side of the house, suffered back injuries and shock.

UTILITIES FIGHT TO SHIELD BAKER

Attempt to Exclude From Record Charges That Ohio Man Aided Power Trust

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Utility lawyers are fighting desperately to exclude from court records a petition which charges that Newton D. Baker, as an attorney, is furthering the high finance methods of the power trust.

The petition they seek to suppress was tendered to the Federal Court at Lynchburg, Va., last Thursday by Herbert S. Ward, Washington attorney. It asks that Ward be permitted to intervene, as a taxpayer, in the New River case.

In this case the power interests, with Baker as their chief counsel, are attempting to smash the federal water power act and win freedom from regulation affecting their rates and securities.

Ward, in his petition, opposed this release from regulation. He contended it would result in capital inflation, causing him and other consumers of electricity in Virginia to pay excessive rates.

APPEALS SENT

Shortly after Ward's petition reached the Lynchburg court, frantic appeals were sent by the utility attorneys to Federal Judge Luther B. Way, in charge of the case. He was urged either to overrule the petition at once, or to exclude it from the court records pending a final decision.

To exclude it would have the effect of keeping Ward's allegations out of the public records until after the Democratic convention in which Baker figures as a "dark horse" candidate.

The appeals for its exclusion were made by the New York law firm of Curtis, Mallet-Prevost, Colt & Mosle, associated with Baker.

In the Appalachian Electric Power Company's behalf, Baker and his associates have sought to justify, on the high ground of state's rights and constitutional law, a refusal to recognize the Power Commission's authority over the New River.

WARD'S CLAIM

Ward argued that Baker, when he was a public official, compelled recognition of this authority. He said:

"As a member of the Federal Power Commission, he caused licenses to be drawn and issued which contained all of the provisions of the Federal Water Power Act which he in behalf of plaintiff now avers are unconstitutional."

In support of his allegation of high finance, Ward cited a $66,000,000 inflation of Appalachian Company capital disclosed by the Federal Trade Commission investigation.

Baker's associates obtained a postponement of argument of the case until July 18—after the Democratic convention.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Drawing Accurate Inferences

The beautiful language of cards, through which partners in the game of contract bridge convey accurate information as to honor strength and distribution by bids which to the uninformed seem to convey much less, is one of the most interesting features of the game.

In the hand below, played recently by Mr. Garnett L. Merriman, of Lynchburg, Va., through his partner's bids he was able to correctly read not only his distribution, but his honor strength as well, and thus, with considerable safety, contract for a grand slam.

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1 ◇ (1)	Pass
2 ♡ (2)	Pass	2 ♠ (3)	Pass
3 ♡ (4)	Pass	6 ♡ (5)	Pass
7 ♡ (6)	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) Showing first the longer of two biddable suits.

(2) A Forcing Takeout, disclosing the possession of more than 3 honor-tricks.

(3) Showing a second biddable suit.

(4) Disclosing Rebid strength in hearts.

(5) Showing not only adequate support for the heart suit, after it has been rebid, but considerable additional strength in the hand as well. It must show either a void in clubs, which seems to be indicated in the bidding, or the Ace of that suit. The direct Jump to the Slam also indicates clearly at least the Ace of spades and probably the King as well.

(6) South reasons that if North can show two suits and then raise his heart bid to a Slam without knowledge as to the location of the diamond King, this important card justifies the bid of a Grand Slam.

Of course, the Grand Slam is made without even the necessity for a finesse, as the losing cards in South's hand can either be ruffed or discarded.

Much Clamor for 'Likker,' None for Food or Jobs

By JOSEPHUS DANIELS
Former Secretary of the Navy
(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO STADIUM, June 30.—They are talking about "likker."

It was said some years ago that in China over 90 per cent of the conversation had to do with food and eating. The people are so poor, and food so scare, the one thing that monopolizees thought and talk is how to get enough to eat.

William Green says that there are 10,000,000 idle workers in America. Federal, state and other agencies of government are appropriating millions to feed them. In the face of this hunger, though I have been in Chicago a week, I have heard nobody clamor for bread. But when it comes to drink, that constitutes about 90 per cent of the conversation in the lobbies of hotels and wherever politicians foregather.

It isn't so much that those who talk drink are bibulous or teetotalers. It is that, realizing that they do not know how to get jobs and bread, every man thinks he is competent to understand and solve the prohibition question.

When the issue is submitted it will be a battle royal. It will require three-fourths of the members of Congress to submit and the affirmative vote of 36 states to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. Those people who think the road to repeal is an easy and quick one will find that it is a hard and rocky road to travel.

screaming to the slaughter, that the price men are willing to pay for the pleasure of eating his carcass makes or unmakes the prosperity of thousands of farmers.

That would seem only horrible murder and cannibalism to a pig. We know that it is part of civilization.

How can we, only a little higher in the scale of evolution, expect to know our destiny, as Father Time drags us from this pasture.

TELL IT TO SALLY

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By SALLY MARTIN

Some People Make Habit of Looking for Sympathy

"Anxious" bawled us out for not sympathizing with busted hearts, and said we "insulted" folks who come to this column for sympathy.

"What of it?" snorts Just Steve, "Some folks need insulting, to snap them out of themselves and make them understand that they haven't the only troubles in the world!"

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I would just like to say a few words, if I may, to that woman who wrote in to your column and called herself 'Anxious.' I mean this for her, and I don't mean maybe, Boy! She certainly got my goat!

"She loved once, according to her story, and lost; and now she goes out with others, but she can't help thinking of him. So she's going to do it, come what may. Hooey! If you keep on thinking of him, it's because you haven't got the sand to snap yourself out of it!

"Supposing you did lose him? If you look alive and keep going you'll forget that you even thought you were in love before.

"As for Sally 'insulting' people who are out for sympathy, I don't see anything wrong in that. Say, do you know that there are sympathy hounds by the thousands who haven't spunk enough to snap out of their troubles, but go to someone like Sally to get their hands held—and keep on doing it until they do get 'insulted?'

NEED INSULTS

"A lot of them need some kind of an insult (and a darned strong one at that) to make them realize that they are not the only ones with troubles—that they're not really 'broken hearted,' but just plain nerts.

"Boy! I know what I'm talking about! I saw some of Sally's 'insults,' as you call them, make one young person I know forget she had been hurt, and realize that when Sally said she was a slacker, and not 'misunderstood,' it was true, and that she herself must be wrong. That girl could take a hint!

"You'd better take a few yourself, sister 'Anxious.' They'll be good for what ails you. You say you weren't asking for advice, but did as you saw fit. All well and good, ole dear, but—I notice you put up your squawk, just the same; and you were looking for sympathy with the rest of them! Don't kid me! You're good! But not too good!

"So go right along, with that crushed heart of yours, if you must. But why take up people's time yapping about it, or bawling folks out for saying it can be cured if you'll use a little of the well-known fortitude?

"JUST STEVE."

JUST A RACKET

Thanks, Steve, Ole Kid, for the kind words.

And there's a lot of truth in what you say. Some folks make a racket of looking for sympathy. Secretly, they are really getting a big bang out of their "tragic fate," and gratifying their vanity by hopping the spotlight. Also, a blighted heart is a mighty handy tool for making other folks run around in dizzy circles.

Sympathizing with people like that won't do them any good. It merely helps them to promote their racket. If they honestly want a cure, an ounce of spunk and common sense is worth a ton of sobs.

Anyone can live down any trouble if he will. There isn't a soul on earth who hasn't had plenty of grief. Whether we get it on the run, or whether it gets us, is up to us.

Fay King Advises Young People Not to Let Depression Halt Marriages

By FAY KING

We read that Sir Cupid is also suffering from the depression. That young couples in love are hesitating to marry in these hard times.

Yet why should they?

You will never be happier with less than when you are young and in love. The joy of being together can enchant the humbliest little home. Any amount of economy and sacrifice for each other becomes a real pleasure.

When one marries with the intention of making it a happy, lasting union one can begin in a very small and inexpensive way. Instead of spending money for diamond engagement rings or honeymoon trips put that into the little first household.

Good times will came again. Then you can better yourselves.

Heart of a Wife

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Returns to Dicky and Receives Compliment

The thoughts mirrored in Hank's face, as I asked him what he meant by "we," were almost as legible as printed words upon a page. A sulky reluctance to give up his wish to drive the car upon the clamming expedition to the beach with Bill and Jim was followed by shamefaced chagrin as he patently compared his speech with the self-denying one which Bill had uttered.

"I mean, could both of us drive," he muttered, "but—"

His face lightened as he saw a way to retrieve his mistake. "Hank doesn't need to lay off for me. I don't suppose I ought to try it until I get my license. But, gee! it's so long to wait."

The cry escaped him—I was sure involuntarily, for he added a disclaimer to it almost immediately.

HANK GETS PERMISSION

"But that musn't stop Bill," he said earnestly. "He can drive. I don't mind."

"But I don't want—need to," Bill said, honesty triumphing over altruism.

"But I want you to drive, Bill," I said. "You know you can't take the wheel unless there's an adult driver in the car, as you haven't had the practice you really ought to have this summer, and it doesn't bother Jim to have you drive. In fact, I think he likes to feel that he is teaching you.

"And, Hank," I went on, answering the unconscious appeal in his eyes, "I am going to do something which, strictly speaking, I ought not to do. Technically you shouldn't put your hands to a wheel, but your Uncle Dicky had been letting you learn on these back roads and if you will promise not to take the wheel except on that wood road near the beach, I don't mind, if Jim is willing, and I'm sure he will be."

Hank's face was suddenly radiant and there was joyous relief in Bill's eyes.

CASE OF JEALOUSY

"Oh, gee, Aunt Madge, you're awful good," Hank stammered, "and I'll be terrible careful, you'll see."

"I know you both will," I said smiling. Now, go and tell Jim I want him to come into the kitchen in 10 minutes, and then get your old clothes on. And put the things that you will need into the old car."

They scurried out and I went back to the veranda, where, as I secretly had hoped, I found Dicky smoking and waiting for me. He took his pipe from his mouth as he rose and grinned lazily at me.

"Well! old dear," he said. "Is the housing problem successfully solved?"

"Yes, thanks to you, it is," I told him. "You were a dear, and so clever to think of that solution!"

"Oh! I have the massive intellect and the sweet disposition all right," Dicky said with a grin. "I'm glad you're beginning to appreciate me at my full worth. So it worked all right. I thought it would."

"It worked wonderfully," I said, "the boys were so dear, but——"

I laughed and told him of their insistence on taking all their belongings out of the room so that "there would not be even a necktie left in the way of the college sheiks."

Dicky grinned.

"Jealousy and the pangs of despised love," he said.

"Yes, I'm afraid so," I said. "Please try to keep them as much occupied as possible while Ronald and Bob are here."

"I've already planned to do that little thing," Dicky said with a grin. "I have very vivid memories of my own kid days, and the awful jealousy I used to have of boys old enough to be in college and play havoc with the hearts of the girls my adolescent soul admired. There is no suffering more acute than that of a young lad in the jealous throes of a first love affair."

"I know," I said uncomfortably, "and I don't want Bill unhappy. He's such a dear, but Hank is good too," I added quickly.

MADGE COMPLIMENTED

Dicky laughed indulgently.

"You have quite a time being impartial, don't you, darling?" he asked. "But I congratulate you on your success. I don't think Hank has an idea that Bill is secretly your favorite."

"He isn't," I began indignantly, then stopped quickly, abashed, for I knew that Dicky's keen perceptions had read me aright!

"Oh! I wouldn't have Hank know for anything," I said. "For—really—Dicky—he is trying so hard and improving so much that——"

"Oh! he'll make the grade," Dicky said comfortably, then added with whimsical tenderness in his voice, "Of course, you don't know why Hank's improving so rapidly?"

I tried to formulate a reply but could not with his brilliant eyes insistently fixed on mine, and Dicky laughed as he bent his head to mine.

"Little Lion Tamer! Is there anything between one year and 90 that could resist your sweetness and unselfishness?" he murmured. "No, you needn't bother to take a bow on that. I'll save you the embarrassment. Harry doesn't know yet that Lil's coming home today. I'll go out and tell him you want him."

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Take Care of Your Eyes

In these modern days we put the eyes to tasks calling for a high degree of muscular and nervous effort, yet people go on without ever thinking of giving the eyes a rest, even for a brief interval. This is a mistake.

Dr. Copeland

Employers of labor sometimes neglect to provide the surroundings which will guard the eye comfort of their employes, although proper precautions prevent wear and tear of the eyes which are essential to best efforts on the job.

It is true, too, that many workmen are perfectly reckless with their eyes, and, in consequence, develop symptoms of eye defect. If these are neglected, serious damage to the vision is such a delicate structure that when it is once seriously impaired it can rarely be restored. This distressing effect may result from any one of a number of different causes.

The skilled workman should be given frequent rest periods so that the eyesight may be saved. It is a great mistake to work all day long without eye rest except the intervals of winking, when the eyelids cover the eye for only the fraction of a second.

There must be no rule against the workman's urge to take an occasional glance away from his work. This temporary rest or change of eye adjustment is one of nature's ways of preserving the sight.

The wise industrial leader, or foreman, or staff physician would do well to have the powerful lights in the workroom properly arranged so that workmen shall have adequate protection from their glare. By rearranging the shading of the lights or changing the workman's position the irritating glare can be avoided.

No matter what the previous vision record of an individual has been, there comes a time in the life of nearly every man and woman when the eyes need the application of some optical aid. The individual who does any extensive amount of study, reading, needlework or other work requiring close vision, is sure to feel a declining power of vision around the age of 40 to 50 years.

This condition comes from two causes. The first is a slight hardening of the crystal-clear lens just back of the pupil of the eye, so that it does not change its shape or focus as readily as it did earlier in life. Second, there is a lesser degree of elasticity of the focusing muscles inside the eyeball—muscles that are continuously acting to reshape the lens, to make it give good vision at different distances.

When you find you have to push your work or your reading a couple of inches farther off, or when the finer lines or markings of your work are seen with effort, then the time has come to have the eyes examined carefully. Properly fitted glasses or spectacles usually will clear up the trouble.

In two or three years a pair of glasses a little stronger than the first may be needed, and possibly another change five years later will carry one through life very comfortably. Then probably the eyesight will continue normally useful, barring disease and accident.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Formal Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me how a woman's name should be written on a program?

If her marriage name is Mrs. Anna Smith and her husband's name is Mr. John Smith, does one write her name as Mrs. John Smith or is her initial put in? A. B. C.

On most occasions of this kind, when names appear on programs, the formal name is used, and therefore I urge that the woman use Mrs. John Smith. The middle name may be written out . . . it should be if it is used . . . for it is best not to use initials when we are using the formal name.

The Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A lady of my acquaintance, upon whom I have called several times, argues that I should ask her if I may come to see her at her home. I think that it is her place to invite me. I am anxious to know who is correct. READER.

You are right. This friend should "extend the hosiptality" of her home to you. And, since you have called on her several times, it would be gracious of her to ask you for a definite time, and for a definite occasion . . . for instance: "Won't you come in to tea on Wednesday of this week?"

'Stop Smith' Movement Apparently Success.

—By MARK SHIELDS—

CHICAGO, June 30. — Whether the "stop Roosevelt" movement in the Democratic party has been successful is something to be determined only by the balloting in the national convention.

Mr. Shields

But there is no question that the "stop Smith" adventure is a complete success. The former candidate for the presidency is a great show in press conferences. He is an outstanding personality after whom the spectators in Chicago run with greater eagerness than is the case of any other candidate on the ground. They all want to see Al.

However, in the councils of the party, and especially on the convention floor, Smith is not the factor he once was. To those who still follow his banner he is a hero who can do no wrong. To some Southern delegates he is anathema, and to delegates with no strong convictions either way he is not a persuasive character.

Indeed, he is an influence which those in sympathy with him feared to use in the permanent chairmanship fight between Senator Thomas J. Walsh and Jouett Shouse, though he spoke last night for prohibition repeal.

* * *

Davis Substituted As Shouse Speaker

Smith had said he would take the floor in behalf of Shouse. The Shouse people canvassed the situation and doubted the wisdom of the course. They wished to hold every vote they had, certainly, and to appeal for more. It was this desire that resulted in a late shift in strategy and substituted John W. Davis for Smith as the New Yorker to make the plea for Shouse. It was unavailing, but the result might have been a greater rebuff had Smith taken the floor.

What is said of Smith nationally applies with equal force to internal affairs in Pennsylvania. Four years ago, Smith was the idol of Pennsylvania Democracy, supported ardently by those who now most vigorously oppose him.

Even some of the delegates who intend to vote for Smith on the first ballot are doing so with little hope of success for the New Yorker, or even with little wish for it. They will swing from him in a minute to Newton D. Baker or Albert C Ritchie.

Smith still thrills the crowd, but he does not sway the delegates, except in two or three states.

He might have succeeded to a greater degree had he started his campaign sooner. Assuredly he would have created a greater schism in Pennsylvania. Not so much on his own account as through furnishing ammunition to that wing of the party which oppose Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh.

* * *

Additional Power Seen for Guffey

As it was, Guffey, an astute political strategist, had things well lined up before Smith entered the fight, and retained his sway despite defeats in some districts.

The result will be to put complete party control in the hands of Guffey if Roosevelt is the nominee.

National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler has said he would resign if Roosevelt is the candidate. The vacancy would be filled by the Democratic state committee, and that body is safely in the hands of Guffey. Indeed, the margin of his control might be greater than when he used Warren Van Dyke to defeat John Collins for state chairman.

For with a candidate bound in gratitude to recognize his state leadership, Guffey could count on some band wagon accessions, the Pittsburgher, with a Roosevelt nomination, is riding the crest of the wave.

Democratic conventions are serious adventures in statesmanship, but there is an air of levity, of delightful and delighted entertainment which is absent when Republicans meet. As Will Rogers said yesterday when he presided while the platform committee was wrangling over its report, the Democrats usually cheer at conventions because they know the convention is the end of everything.

In this convention, however, there has been shot through the air of levity a sentiment of straight thinking and straight talk, as was evidenced last night when the convention by an overwhelming vote refused to equivocate on the prohibition question.

265 PENSIONED OR DISMISSED BY ORDER

196 to Be Furloughed for Month; List Kept Secret; Higher Ups Awaiting Ax

Mayor Charles H. Kline announced today that 165 patrolmen and 100 firemen had been pensioned or dismissed, and that 100 patrolmen and 96 firemen would be given one month's furlough, effective tomorrow.

The wholesale pensioning and dismissals, the first step in the shakeup due to the trimming of appropriations by City Council, was explained by Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, as hitting those who were of pension age or who were "physically unfit."

MEN NOTIFIED

Shortly before noon, Clark and Police Supt. P. P. Walsh called in the men from home and duty to confer in their respective offices. There the men were told of their pensioning or dismissal.

Of the police, it was announced that 100 were pensioned and 65 dismissed. The firemen, all hosemen, were equally divided, about 50 being pensioned and 50 let out.

It was understood the shakeup which will involve police inspectors, captains and lieutenants, and fire chiefs and captains would come later.

For the first time, Mayor Kline withheld the names of those let out. In previous shakeups, those subjected to change were listed for publication.

WITHIN BUDGET

The changes were held within the limits prescribed by Council at budget time, Director Clark explained. He added that the men dismissed were given physical examinations by Dr. D. E. Sable, police and fire physician, and declared unfit.

It was also learned that the men let go were on the list submitted to Mayor Kline by the 32 ward chairmen—and that the responsibility of firing rests upon them rather than on the Mayor.

Among the first to be told he was on the pension list was Edward Barry, 32 years in the service and recently attached to Traffic Court. He was a former captain and lieutenant.

Patrolman Oliver Graham, the tallest man of the department, 6 feet 6 inches, was given a pension, as were Patrolmen James McCormick and Harry Williams, ex-city detective. Their service ranged from 22 to 32 years.

JOHN L. WALKER GIVEN DIVORCE

John L. Walker, prominent in business circles, and a resident of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, was granted a divorce from Mary Jackson Walker, of 200 Richland lane, today by Judge Thomas M. Marshall.

At the same time, Judge Marshall refused a divorce filed in countersuit by Mrs. Walker.

The divorce granted was on a plea of indignities, in which Walker testified his wife quarreled, went into rages, scratched him and caused scenes in public places.

Mrs. Walker stated their family difficulties developed over Walker's two daughters by a previous marriage, one, Mary, a student in Winchester School, and the other, Helen, in Pennsylvania College for Women. She said they were defiant, and that he upheld them.

Mrs. Walker asked partial divorce and alimony, which was refused, the judge asserting that it was the court's impression that "she was a nervous, high-strung woman, and that the family life portrayed by the testimony should not be continued."

She was Walker's bookkeeper before their marriage in 1926.

They separated last May.

Trolley Passenger Hurt by Baseball

Florist Drowns in Leap From 22nd St. Bridge

A half hour after he had leaped from the Twenty-second Street Bridge, the body of W. C. Kessler, of 1880 Carson street, South Side florist, was dragged from the Monongahela River yesterday, according to a Coroner's report.

South Side police, who recovered the body, made a futile effort to revive Kessler. Some time ago, police reported, Kessler had attempted to end his life with a revolver.

With a final shout for aid from his two companions, who were swimming with him, Alexander Hanka, 17, a Hazelwood newsboy, of 5001 Ladore street, drowned in the Monongahela River late yesterday.

His companions, Richard Stulc, of 5013 Ladore street, and Charles (Chic) Toth, of 5015 Ladore street, told police they were unable to reach Hanka in time to save him. Police and rivermen recovered his body a few hours later.

RELIEF FIGHT TO BE TAKEN TO PUBLIC

Miller Urges Bulk Buying For Economy as Council Favors Plan Now in Use

With Welfare Fund and Emergency Association leaders standing against the proposed commissary method of purchasing relief supplies in bulk, and City Council agreeing that the present system of distribution is best, Attorney Harry I. Miller plans to take his fight for economy to the public.

Following a hearing before Council yesterday, Miller threatened a taxpayer's suit within 10 days to halt the expenditure of public funds without bids.

Later, in an interview, he qualified his announcement by declaring he would not bring suit if it would cut off the food supply of families receiving aid.

BACKED BY BOARDS

Speaking last night before the Allied Boards of Trade, Miller stressed the savings possible through bulk buying of foods and their distribution from a central warehouse.

The organization indorsed Miller's plan whereby relief work financed by the city and other municipalities would be conducted by volunteer workers.

Miller referred briefly to his appearance before Council, admitting he "did not get far." He said his plan would cut the cost of relief by 40 to 50 per cent.

Miller, active in the Helping Hand Association and the Surplus for the Needy Cannery, admitted when questioned before Council that he was unable to prove that 25 per cent of the relief funds went to overhead.

METHODS DEFENDED

John F. Casey, Sr., of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, declared that not one cent of the public funds used for relief goes to overhead. Maj. Philip Matthews said that only 7.4 per cent of the budget of the private agencies went to overhead in the first quarter of this year.

Casey admitted the commissary plan would be a cheaper method of feeding, but said that because of its effect on the morale of the community it should not be used until absolutely necessary.

Councilman Robert Garland clashed sharply with Miller, declaring that not a court in the land would listen to a taxpayer's suit based on the case presented.

Push Investigation Of Edgeworth Fire

Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr, county officials and Edgeworth police today were continuing their investigation of a mysterious fire in the home of Joseph Sanders, on Chestnut road and Highland lane, Edgeworth, early yesterday. Firemen said they found a strong odor of gasoline in the cellarway, where the fire started, while the family was absent. Damage was estimated at $3,500.

Two Holdup Men Take Watch, Ring

A watch and a ring were stolen from Harry Frankel, of 7634 Kelly street, by two highwaymen who stopped him at Kelly street and Brushton avenue early today. Both men had revolvers, Frankel told police. He valued the watch at $50 and the ring at $75.

SAYRE LIGHTED BY LANTERNS

SAYRE, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—Sayre Borough was in darkness last night as a result of the dispute that has been carried on between the borough council and the Northern Pennsylvania Power Company since April 9. After numerous attempts at compromise had failed the power company finally announced yesterday that the lights would be turned off.

Last night, pedestrians made their way about the streets with flashlights and some have brought out old kerosene lanterns that had not been used for years.

No serious accidents were reported. The police force was especially active in the business section, where fear of robbery had been expressed by some merchants. Boys playing pranks made possible by the darkness had a gleeful time.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

CHICAGO, June 30.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Amos and Andy won the nomination, at the great Democratic national convention in Chicago yesterday. That takes care of the offices of President and the Vice President. Brother Crawford, a fellow member of that great fraternity, the Mystic Nights of the Sea, nominated them, the Kingfish and "Lightnin" seconded. Eddie Dowling, a very popular New Yorker, replaced Senator Walsh, of Montana, as

Will Rogers

Went down to his bank and had a long chat with Charley Dawes. He has had to neglect his own business in the past to help look after ours, but he is back home now, and that will add needed confidence to the financial structure of this great Midwest city. He's a fine citizen, is Charley Dawes. Yours, WILL.

AIRPORT COSTS SIFTED AT PROBE

Contractor Questioned for Two Hours Before Court Is Asked to Seize Papers

Impounding books and records of Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, and an audit of them by M. C. Conick, who has been making an investigation of county expenditures, was asked today by the grand jury.

The petition was presented by Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt to Judge Elder W. Marshall this afternoon. Attorney Oliver K. Eaton opposed the move. Previously Eaton had refused to allow Conick to examine the books, insisting their contents be revealed only to the grand jury.

QUIZZED 2 HOURS

The grand jury, after a two hours' session with Bowser and books today, said in its petition:

"We find that the books and records are involved and complicated, and the grand jury is unable through its own efforts properly to analyze and interpret the same. We pray that the said books and papers be impounded by the court and that an order be made authorizing and directing M. C. Conick to make an audit and analysis of the books and records for information of the grand jury."

CONICK TESTIFIES

Before Bowser, who collected 60 cents a ton from the county for hauling at the City-County Airport and paid sub contractors as low as 12½ cents a ton for doing the work, was called into the grand jury room, Conick paved the way for the Kittanning man's hearing. While Bowser was before the grand jury, an assistant district attorney made frequent trips out of the room to confer with Conick, who remained outside the door.

$25,000 VOTED

The County Commissioners today appropriated another $25,000 for the county audit, making a total of $100,000 to date. The audit was one of the platform planks of the new Board of Commissioners.

MARKET HOUSE RINK VOTED

An amendment to the Diamond Market House ordinance, to permit installation of a roller skating rink on the second floor, was authorized by City Council today. Permission to operate a rink was asked by H. B. Moesser, well-known Pittsburgh amusement man, who had the rink in the old market house in 1906.

An objection to the lease was made by Thomas M. Benner, first assistant city solicitor, who ruled the ordinance regulating market house operation specified the building could be leased for market purposes only. After a discussion with councilmen, Benner and Public Works Director Edward G. Lang were instructed to amend the ordinance.

The Diamond Market Association, which now leases the site, favors the rink lease. Under terms of the proposed agreement, the association would receive $8,000 as annual rental, half of which would be given to the city.

ROLLED 50 FEET BY CAR, LIVES

Rolled under a Lincoln avenue car for 50 feet in Fifth avenue, this morning, C. Bruce Lafferty, 46, of 4431 Saline street, compositor on a local newspaper, was dragged out, suffering only a fractured left ankle and bruises on the body and face.

Lafferty was crossing Fifth avenue near Smithfield street when knocked down by the car, operated by Thomas Proctor, of 1256 Brushton avenue. Patrolman Peter McCullough shouted to the motorman and the car was stopped after Lafferty had been dragged 50 feet, according to McCullough.

The patrolman pulled the victim from beneath the car and his first remark was:

"Everything is o. k. I'm all right."

He wasn't. He could not stand and was taken to Mercy Hospital.

WIVES OF VETS HOLD RALLY TONIGHT

Plans Will Be Made for Family Groups to Join Relatives in Bonus Camp

A mass meeting of World War veterans' wives and family groups will be staged at 8 o'clock tonight in old St. Patrick's Church basement, Liberty avenue and Seventeenth street, to obtain recruits for the Bonus Expeditionary Force camp at Washington.

The meeting has been called by Mrs. George M. Huey, wife of a veteran now in Washington, who is organizing the women and family groups seeking to join their husbands and relatives upon whom they are dependent.

A permanent organization will be formed at the meeting.

Attorney Cyrus Davis has volunteered to serve as treasurer for the group, it was announced, as appeals are issued for donations of money to cover expenses and render necessary assistance. Mrs. Huey said all donations should be sent to Davis' offices in the Bowman Building.

Permanent headquarters have been opened in the church basement under direction of Mrs. Huey. The public is asked to donate food and clothing, as well as trucks and gasoline. Persons desiring to render such assistance are asked to telephone Court 7927.

BONUS BRIGADE DRILLS IN SUN

WASHINGTON, June 30—(AP.)—Hard-boiled top sergeants started today to whip the bonus-seeking army into a military unit.

Under orders of Walter W. Waters, the commander-in-chief, the men drilled and paraded under a hot sun. The drill period was one of the conditions demanded by Waters in asking for "unlimited powers."

Police kept a strict watch on the encampment to see that this authority was not wielded to the disadvantage of the men.

Sharp words passed last night between Waters and Pelham D. Glassford, police superintendent, over the commander's threat to transport to the District of Columbia's line any man who did not co-operate with him.

Food supplies from local and nearby donors were sufficient to feed the men today on reduced rations.

Allegheny Valley Vets Join March

TUNNEL REPORT BEING STUDIED

The auditors' report on the Armstrong Tunnel is being studied by County Solicitor J. P. Fife and the report, with Fife's opinion, will probably be made public early next week.

Asked why the Armstrong Tunnel report has been withheld for several weeks while all other reports of M. C. Conick, chief auditor for Main & Co., have been released for publication as soon as made, Commissioner C. M. Barr said:

"There are several questions involved in this report that necessitated its being submitted to the legal department."

Before leaving for New York Fife said his office is studying the report and will finish it either late this week or early next week.

LONDON, June 30.—(AP.)—The British government, on the eve of Ireland's anticipated failure to pay more than $5,000,000 due in land annuities at midnight tonight, was understood today to be preparing to collect the annuities through tariff taxes on Irish goods.

The Free State government was considered virtually certain to fail to make the payment, according to President Eamon De Valera's declaration.

The British government was understood to be ready to introduce a retaliatory tariff bill into the House of Commons next Monday and to push the measure to passage before the end of the week.

GARBO LEFT OFF LIST OF STARS

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has announced the roster of 18 motion picture stars it will feature in 1932-33 production. Greta Garbo is not among them.

The Swedish actress, who at times has been reported anxious to return to her native country to live, was not even mentioned in the announcement of the film company's future plans.

At the M. G. M. offices here, however, an official said:

"The only reason Greta Garbo is not on the list is that her contract is still in the process of negotiation. Her option expired in May and as yet we do not know whether she will sign a new contract or not."

Among the new names on the company's roster of stars are Clark Gable, Robert Montgomery, Jackie Cooper, Helen Hayes and Jimmy Durante. Each will appear in at least two of the 37 starring or co-starring pictures for 1932-33, as also will Marion Davies, Joan Crawford, Norma Shearer, Marie Dressler, Ramon Novarro, William Haines and Wallace Beery.

SWING TO ARMS CUT PLAN SEEN

GENEVA, June 30.—(AP.)—Evidence that France is becoming more favorable to the proposal of President Hoover for a world-wide one-third reduction of armaments was reported by the American delegation to the Arms Conference today.

The prospect greatly encouraged the Americans, although the position of Great Britain continued uncertain on the question of supporting the Hoover plan.

The Americans were preparing, however, to carry the Hoover plan before the general commission of the conference if the British continued to delay acceptance for any great length of time.

There was evidence that the British cabinet was split on approving the Hoover plan. Prime Minister MacDonald and Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary, informed Ambassador Hugh Gibson they wished to accept the plan in principle, but Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, who represents the Conservative section of the cabinet, said the government would have to consult the dominions before it could make a decision.

AUTO HITS POLE, THREE INJURED

O'Brien escaped injury. Those riding with O'Brien, and who were treated at hospitals for their injuries, are Edward Casey, 28, of 1412 Arch street; Michael McHugh, 24, of Jacksonia street, and Robert Ciminio, 24, of 414 Sampson street.

Said to have run into the side of an automobile in Washington boulevard near the Sharpsburg Bridge, John Lynch, 11, of 317 South Evaline street, last night suffered concussion of the brain. Police said the machine was driven by W. N. DePue, of 6830 Lyric street, who took the boy to the Pittsburgh Hospital.

Struck by a car in Bedford avenue last night, Irwin Roberts, 6, of 10 Whiteside road, was taken to the Passavant Hospital in a serious condition. The boy is said to have suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries. Police said the truck was driven by Sylvester Holmes, a Negro, of 16 Ludley street.

LINK 4 DEATHS IN POISON PLOT

If the investigation of county detectives into an alleged poison plot warrants, the exhumation of four bodies will be asked today by George Murran, county detective chief.

George Allas, Jr., 20, of Whitaker way, Munhall, told detectives, they said, that he believed his two brothers, an unnamed baby and his step-mother's first husband, had been poisoned for insurance.

Allas' statement followed the alleged confession of Mrs. Gazella Young that she had been involved in a plot to kill two men and a woman for their insurance. Mrs. Mary Chalfa, 35, was named as the instigator, detectives reported.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

I can tell you today who will have charge of the shows and tableaus Friday evening sponsored by the Advisory Council of the Unemployment Relief Association of Sewickley, being given in the Edgeworth Club at 8:30 o'clock. The proceeds are being contributed to unemployment relief in the valley. There is a dress rehearsal this evening, by the way.

The first play, "Facing Facts" is in charge of Mrs. W. Dudley Livingston, Joseph Porter and Mrs. Charles L. Hamilton. The second play is about Benjamin Franklin and Ben Jonson.

To Give Tableaus

Then there are to be five tableaus of Sewickley in the gay '90s, that will prove most amusing, under the general chairmanship of Mrs. John M. Tate. The first will be a sports scene on the old athletic grounds, in charge of Miss Ethel Christy and Elizabeth Dickson; the next, "New Year's Callers," in charge of Eda Young and Mrs. W. D. George. Then there will be a wedding scene, arranged by Mrs. Frank R. Stoner and Helen Smith, and "Bathing Beauties" by Mrs. Mark Craig and Nancy Craig, and last of all, "Beaver Street," arranged by Nancy Hamilton.

There will be a dance after the main features of the entertainment, and Elmore Harris Harbison, of Sewickley, is to lead the orchestra.

Mrs. Alexander Laughlin and Alexander Robinson are heading the Advisory Council, you know.

* * *

Radiant Bride

And by the way, I have never seen such a radiant, happy bride, and as self-possessed and as beaming a bridegroom as at the reception at the Pittsburgh Field Club following the marriage of Edna Diebold and William Nicholas Steitz yesterday.

Another bride of yesterday was Elizabeth Booth Miller, daughter of the William Booth Millers, of Sewickley, who became the bride at 4 o'clock of Kirtland Cutter Gardner, Jr., son of the Kirtland Cutter Gardens, of Coraopolis Heights.

Her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. Robert Upjohn Redpath, Jr., of South Orange, N. J., and the maid of honor, Margaret Campbell Miller, another sister, wore similar gowns of peach chiffon, and carried talisman roses and blue lace flowers.

Bridal Party

The bridesmaids, Jane Trowbridge, of Lake Forest, Ill.; Louise Gardner, sister of the bridegroom, Mary Magee, Nancy Scott Craig and Mrs. David S. Chaplin, wore pale green chiffon gowns, and carried African daisies and lace flowers. All wore large brown straw hats.

Mary Louise Woods, as flower girl, wore a peach colored frock and carried sweetheart roses and blue lace flowers. Francis Clark Wood was the page.

George Franklin Gardner was his brother's best man. K. Foster Robertson, John Malone, both of Coraopolis Heights; Robert U. Redpath, Jr., both of South Orange; E. Colin Baldwin, of Amityville, L. I.; Thomas J. Wood III, of Dayton, O.; Bryson Rawn, of Huntington, W. Va., and John M. Lyons, of Princeton, were ushers.

Ruth Cadwallader Weds in Home Ceremony

At a simple home ceremony at 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Miss Ruth Cadwallader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cadwallader, became the bride of Thomas M. Cable, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Cable, of Shenandoah, Ia. The Rev. N. H. Sanner officiated, before an embankment of ferns and blue delphiniums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of white lace with Louis XIV puffed sleeves and a circular train. Her tulle veil cascaded from a cap of tulle caught with orange blossoms. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Cadwallader, Jr., was matron of honor, wearing yellow silk net with touches of green, and green lace mitts. She carried garden flowers. Shirley Cadwallader, small niece of the bride, was flower girl, and wore green chiffon and carried a basket of garden flowers. Russell L. Grannis was best man.

Miss Dorothy Mauger, of Reading, Pa., sang, accompanied by Harold Bright, also of Reading.

* * *

Miss Reva Helen Lippard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Lippard, of Denniston avenue, has chosen Saturday as the day for her marriage to William W. Davis, also of Pittsburgh. The ceremony will take place in Rodef Shalom Temple, after which Mr. Davis and his bride will leave for Atlantic City. They will be at home later in Pittsburgh.

To Wed Saturday

* * *

Miss Bessie and Miss Ann Levine, of Bryn Mawr road, entertained with a luncheon and bridge in Webster Hall on Sunday in honor of their sister, Miss Rose Levine. Covers were laid for 30 guests.

* * *

The Pittsburgh Field Club is holding a special dinner dance on Monday, and that morning there will be an 18-hole medal play and in the afternoon an 18-hole match play for the golfers of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Simon, of Beacon street, entertained recently in honor of Philip B. Krauss, of Douglas street, who is leaving for a four-week motor trip to California.

DESIGNERS FAVOR CREPEY MATERIALS

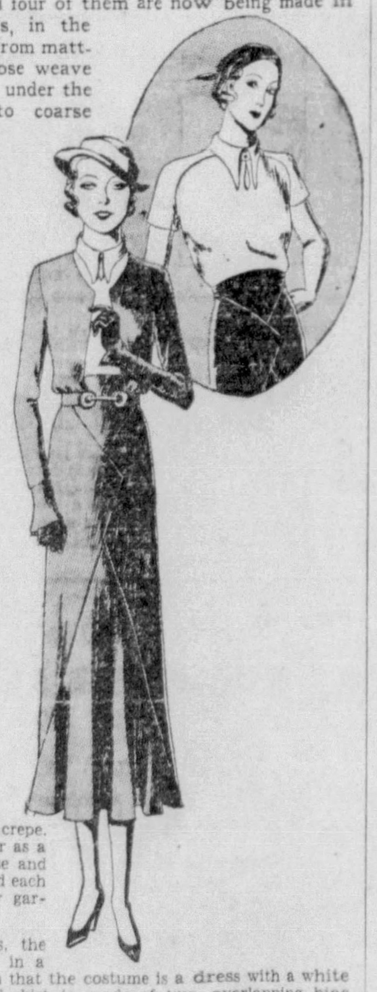
Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 30.—Crepey materials are distinctly a 1932 fashion. Woolens, silks, cottons, linens and mixtures of any two, three or all four of them are now being made in crepe weaves. Crepes, in the French versions, vary from matt-surfaced materials whose weave appears smooth except under the closest observation to coarse nubby fabrics whose texture is an elaborate exaggeration of the familiar crepe.



* * *

PRACTICALLY one-half of all the new evening dresses now on display in Paris dressmaking establishments are of crepe weaves of one sort or another. A good majority of country cotton frocks are cotton crepe, seersucker or other weaves of a similar character. Woolen crepes are much in evidence for coats and suits and are practically universal for wool dresses.

MANY OF the new crepey woolens are particularly satisfactory in light colors. They are used to make the little town suits that are indispensable for summer, since they do not easily crush.

* *

VERA BOREA, who imports many of her crepes from Italian mills, made this summer suit-dress of light green wool crepe. It is so designed to appear as a dress, yet the skirt, blouse and jacket are all separate, and each may be worn with other garments.

* * *

AS THE sketch shows, the jacket overlaps the skirt in a way to further the illusion that the costume is a dress with a white vestee. The high-waisted skirt is made of two overlapping bias panels which join an inverted V-shaped bias section to give fullness at the front. The jacket fastens through two nickel rings with a green stone clasp.

* * *

THE SIMPLY designed shirt is of white jersey, cut with raglan shoulders and short sleeves. The mannish collar, with its long points, is worn fastened high, without any decoration.

REFORMS DEMANDED IN DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

EXTRAVAGANCE DENOUNCED, COMPETITIVE TARIFF URGED BY PARTY

CHICAGO, June 30.—(AP.)—The complete text of the Democratic platform approved by the full resolutions committee and presented to the convention follows:

In this time of unprecedented economic and social distress the Democratic party declares its convictions that the chief causes of this condition were the disastrous policies pursued by our government snce the World War of economic isolation; fostering the merger of competitive business into monopolies; and encouraging the indefensible expansion and contraction of credit for private profit at the expense of the public.

Those who were responsible for these policies have abandoned the ideals on which the war was won, and thrown away the fruits of victory, thus rejecting the greatest opportunity in history to bring peace, prosperity and happiness to our people and to the world.

They have ruined our foreign trade, destroyed the values of our commodities and products, crippled our banking system, robbed millions of our people of their life savings and thrown millions more out of work, produced widespread poverty and brought the government to a state of financial distress unprecented in times of peace.

The only hope for improving present conditions, restoring employment, affording permanent relief to the people, and bringing the nation back to its former proud position of domestic happiness and of financial, industrial, agricultural and commercial leadership in the world lies in a drastic change in economic and governmental policies.

Believing that a party platform is a covenant with the people to be faithfully kept by the party when entrusted with power, and that the people are entitled to know in plain words the terms of the contract to which they are asked to subscribe, we hereby declare this to be the PLATFORM OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

The Democratic party solemnly promises by appropriate action to put into effect the principles, policies and reforms herein advocated, and to eradicate the policies, methods and practices herein condemned.

WE ADVOCATE:

1. An immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus, and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of Federal government; and we call upon the Democratic party in the states to make a zealous effort to achieve a proportionate result.

2. Maintenance of the national credit by a Federal budget annually balanced on the basis of accurate executive estimates within revenues, raised by a system of taxation levied on the principle of ability to pay.

Sound Currency Urged

3. A sound currency to be preserved at all hazards; and an international monetary conference called on the invitation of our government to consider the rehabilitation of silver and related questions.

4. A competitive tariff for revenue, with a fact-finding tariff commission free from executive interference; reciprocal tariff agreements with other nations; and an international economic conference designed to restore international trade and facilitate exchange.

5. Extension of Federal credit to the states to provide unemployment relief wherever the diminishing resources of the states make it impossible for them to provide for the needy, expansion of the Federal program of necessary and useful construction affected with a public interest; such as flood control and waterways, including the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes deep waterways; the spread of employment by a substantial reduction in the hours of labor, the encouragement of the shorter week by applying that principle in Government service; advance planning of public works.

6. Unemployment and old age insurance, under state laws.

Farm Aid Sought

7. For the restoration of agriculture, the nation's basic industry, better financing of farm mortgages through reorganized farm bank agencies at low rates of interest, on an amortization plan, giving preference to credits for the redemption of farms and homes sold under foreclosure; extension and development of the farm cooperative movement, and effective control of crop surpluses so that our farmers may have the full benefit of the domestic market; enactment of every constitutional measure that will aid the farmers to receive for basic farm commodities, prices in excess of cost.

8. A navy and army adequate for national defense, based on a survey of all facts affecting the existing establishments, that the people in time of peace may not be burdened by an expenditure fast approaching a billion dollars annually.

9. Strict and impartial enforcement of the anti-trust laws to prevent monopoly and unfair trade practices, and revision thereof for the better protection of labor and the small producer and distributor; the removal of government from all fields of private enterprise, except where necessary to develop public works and natural resources in the common interest. Conservation development and use of the nation's water power in the public interest.

Demand for Repeal

We favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

To effect such repeal, we demand that the Congress immediately propose a Constitutional amendment to purely representative conventions in the states called to act solely on that proposal.

We urge the enactment of such measures by the several states as will actually promote temperance, effectively prevent the return of the saloon and bring the liquor traffic into the open under complete supervision and control by the states.

We demand that the Federal Government effectively exercise its power to enable the states to effectually protect themselves against importation of intoxicating liquors in violation of their laws.

Pending repeal, we favor immediate modification of the Volstead Act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the Constitution and to provide therefrom a proper and needed revenue.

Investors' Protection

10. Protection of the investing public by requiring to be filed with the government and carried in advertisements of all offerings of foreign and domestic stocks and bonds, true information as to bonuses, commissions, principal invested and interests of sellers.

Regulation to the full extent of the federal power of

(C)—Exchanges trading in securities and commodities.

11. Quicker methods of realizing on assets for the relief of depositors of suspended banks and a more rigid supervision of national banks for the protection of depositors and the prevention of the use of their moneys in speculation to the detriment of local credits.

The severance of affiliated securities companies and the divorce of the investment banking from commercial banks; and further restriction of Federal Reserve banks in permitting the use of Federal Reserve facilities for speculative purposes.

Justice for Veterans

12. The full measure of justice and generosity for all war vets erans who have suffered disability or disease caused by or resulting from actual service in time of war, and for their dependents.

13. A firm foreign policy including: Peace with all the world and the settlement of international disputes by arbitration; no interference in the international affairs of other nations; the sanctity of treaties, and the maintenance of good faith and of good will in financial obligations; adherence to the World Court with the pending reservations; the pact of Paris abolishing war as an instrument of national policy, to be made effective by provisions for consultation and conference in case of threatened violation of treaties; international agreement for reduction of armaments; and cooperation with nations of the western hemisphere to maintain the spirit of the Monroe Doctrine.

We oppose cancellation of the debts owing to the United States by foreign nations.

14. Independence for the Philippines; ultimate statehood for Porto Rico; the employment of American citizens in the operation of the Panama Canal.

Court Changes Urged

15. Simplification of legal procedure and reorganization of the judicial system to make the attainment of justice speedy, certain and at less cost.

16. Continuous publicity of political contributions and expenditures, strengthening of the corrupt practices act, and severe penalties for misappropriation of campaign funds.

WE CONDEMN:

1. The improper and excessive use of money in political activities.

2. Paid lobbies of special interests to influence members of Congress and other public servants by personal contact.

3. Action and utterances of high public officials designed to influence stock exchange prices.

4. The open and covert resistance of administrative officials to every effort made by Congressional committees to curtail the extravagant expenditures of the government, and to revoke improvident subsidies granted to favored interests.

5. The extravagance of the farm board, its disastrous action which made the government a speculator in farm products, and the unsound policy of restricting agricultural production to the demands of domestic markets.

6. The usurpation of power by the State Department in assuming to pass upon foreign securities offered by international bankers, as a result of which billions of dollars in questionable bonds have been sold to the public upon the implied approval of the Federal Government.

7. The Hawley-Smoot tariff law, the prohibitive rates of which have resulted in retaliatory action by more than 40 countries, created international economic hostilities, destroyed international trade, driven our factories into foreign countries, robbed the American farmer of his foreign markets and increased his cost of production.

CONCLUSION:

To accomplish these purposes and to recover economic liberty we pledge to nominees of this convention and the best effort of a great party whose founder announced the doctrine which guides us now, in the hour of our country's need—"Equal rights to all, special privileges to none."

Democratic and G. O. P. Rum Planks Contrasted

CHICAGO, June 30.—The prohibition plank adopted by the Republican national convention differs from the majority plank of the Democrats in that it calls merely for resubmission of the prohibition question to the people. The Democratic majority plank pledges the party to work for repeal. The Democratic plank follows:

"We favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"To effect such repeal, we demand that the Congress immediately propose a Constitutional amendment to truly representative conventions in the states called to act solely on that proposal,

"We urge the enactment of such measures by the several states as will actually promote temperance, effectively prevent the return of the saloon and bring the liquor traffic into the open under complete supervision and control by the states,

"We demand that the federal government effectively exercise its power to enable the states to effectively protct themselves against importation of intoxicating liquors in violation of their laws,

"Pending repeal, we favor immediate modification of the Volstead Act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the Constitution and to provide therefrom a proper and needed revenue."

The Republican plank says:

"We do not favor a submission limited to the issue of retention or repeal.

"For the American nation never in its history has gone backward, and in this case the progress which has been thus made must be preserved, while the evils must be eliminated,

"We therefore, believe the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment, the provision of which, while retaining in the federal government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow states to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine, but subject always to the power of the federal government to protect those states where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses."

5 ESCAPE FIRE; ARSON BLAMED

A man who is believed to have set fire to a home near Acmetonia early today, escaped with his clothing aflame. He left behind a smouldering size seven shoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Skwartzo and their two children awakened in time to escape in their night clothes. The house was destroyed.

Several residents of the district, near Tarentum, saw the man, with his clothes blazing, run from the Skwartzo house. They gave chase, but before reaching him, he had rolled in the grass, extinguishing the flames, and hurried on.

Police reported it the second fire from incendiarism, the same house having been fired in 1930.

Woman Made to Open Vault for $99 Loot

URBANA, O., June 30.—(INS.)—Kidnaping Mrs. Lena Woodward, assistant cashier of the Peoples Bank in the village of Woodstock, near here, two armed and masked bandits took her from her home to the bank early today, where they forced her to open the vault.

For all their trouble, however, the bandits obtained a total of only $99 in loot—$78 in nickles and $21 in pennies.

Hot Weather Poem

I think that I shall never see
An absolutely perfect knee;

A knee that never turns nor swerves

Excepting in the proper way;
A knee that may be on display

In any one piece bathing suit
And yet look positively cute;

A knee that certainly is half
As fascinating as a calf

And may quite adequately vie
With the attraction of a thigh

Poems are made by Guest, but he

The Snapper Snippy

Charles Wagner, the producer, was worried. He couldn't make up his mind about what sort of a show to sponsor. He called Alexander Woollcott, one of the more devastating commentators, on the phone.

"I'm still wondering," pouted Wagner, "what kind of a play to do this year?"

"Well," replied the smart Alex, "you can always revive 'Scaramouche' with Sidney Blackmer — if you can revive Sidney Blackmer!"

Main Stem Cruelty

Then there's this testimony to prove that Billy Rose, the producer, is a bit of a villain. A rival showman phoned him the other day and ejaculated:

"I'm going to be your greatest opposition, old man, I've got some cast!"

And then he reeled off a list of stars, who aren't any more.

"What are you doing?" crushed Billy, "a revue — or a revival?"

Clown in Clover

If you've heard it before, don't stop me, but Jimmy Durante's car, it appears, crashed into another the other sundown, and the burned-up victim yelled:

"Who do you think you are?"

Riddle

We all know, says D. Murray, that love laughs at locksmiths, but who laughs at radio comedians?

Radio comedians.

Come to Think of It

Milt Gross, one of the better newspaper clowns, was in a fret one day because he had to let his work go to attend the funeral of a kin.

"Just my luck," groaned Gross, "it's tough enough—I haven't an idea for a laugh—and I gotta go to a cemetery!"

But at the cemetery Gross observed something so comical that he had to use up a dozen pages to jot it down—for which a nationally-circulated magazine paid him $800.

Nifty

Terry Rotchford was a witness at the Sharkey-Schmeling encounter, but he avers that he had more fun listening to the guy seated next to him—a rabid fight fan.

The Good Old Days

Those who sigh for the good old days, sighs The Billboard, would find it interesting to know that Tony Wons tended furnace, Freddie Rich played the piano in a nickelodeon, Ben Bernie demonstrated fiddles in a store, Jacques Renard played violin for Pavlowa, Eddie Duchin was a pharmacist, Morton Downey was fired from a furniture store, Fred Berrens was a female impersonator, Ben Alley worked as a road paver, the Mills boys troubadour'd on the streets of Piqua, Ohio, and Bing Crosby dusted books in a law office.

But they were the good old days! Then it was that income taxes weren't tripled, jobs were steadier, championship bouts weren't dull, musical shows had tunes in them you could remember, humor magazines had jokes in them you wanted to steal, girls were reasonable, and prohibition was a word in the dictionary.

Ad Sillies

Bobby Dolan's pet drunk gag, he says, is the old one about the two stews who were on a subway train.

"Les get on a sesspress," suggested the first.

"Stoo late for sesspresses," replied the other.

"We're on a locallllll!"

And They Mark Hellingers!

Wasting a lotta time in the pleasant manner, such as preparing a pillar like this, has its interruptions. Broadway's handsomest paragrapher, Mark (Ibsen) Hellinger, frinstance, was just in trying to help spoil today's stint.

Imagine a contemporary bringing gifts. However, he insisted he could make up a sentence with the name Marion Harris—like this—"Marion Harris and repent at leisure."

Add Heat Waves

The humidity will bring on anything, but take it from Bob K. London and Marc Lachmann, both of whom vow they witnessed it.

While playing at the Roxy Theater last week, Frisco, the comedian, was ankling along 6th Ave. on his way to the theater when he was approached by a familiar process server.

The comedian took to his heels and ran, with the summons server racing after him. When Frisco got to the corner, he turned his head and yelled:

Democrats in Metrotone News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Stirring scenes of the opening of the Democratic national convention in Chicago are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. The fireworks was started by Senator A. W. Barkley, of Kentucky, who is seen and heard delivering the keynote speech denouncing Republican rule. He is constantly interrupted by cheers as he decries the compromising plank of the G. O. P. on prohibition, and declares amidst wild excitement that the Democratic party is for a submission to the states of the straight repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. There is further enthusiastic applause when he predicts that no matter who the nominee may be, he will surely be elected President of the United States next November. Other scenes show the delegates arriving for the opening and settling down for the big battle expected in the choosing of the nominee. There is a graphic description by The Globe Trotter. The current issue of the Hearst Metrotone News is being shown on the screens of the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

HOOVER ON SCREEN

President Hoover brings to the screen through Hearst Metrotone News his plan, submitted to the Geneva Conference, calling upon the world powers for a one-third reduction in armaments.

Followed by a gallery of 10,000 fans, Gene Sarazen is shown capturing the United States open golf championship at the Fresh Meadow links on Long Island following his winning of the British crown. His long, accurate drives and amazing putts arouse the galleries to a frenzy. There is a final scene showing him with his wife and holding the British and American cups.

More than a million persons gather in Dublin, Ireland, for the opening of the thirty-first Eucharistic Congress. A remarkable reception is accorded to Cardinal Lauri, the papal legate, who is escorted through the streets by troops with President De Valera by his side. Final scenes show the Pope's representative greeting visiting cardinals from all over the world.

RUN STEEPLECHASE

President and Madame Lebrun are among more than 200,000 Paris racing fans who packed the track at Auteuil to celebrate the opening of Sporting Week and to witness the running of the Grand Steeplechase, a grueling contest of four miles. A thrilling finish shows Duc D'Anjou, a rank outsider, win by a head.

Uncle Robert, of radio fame, stages a title bout on the sidewalk in the Gashouse district of New York among a score of kids in the neighborhood. There is plenty of excitement.

Karolyi Retains Power in Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 30, —(AP.)— Count Julius Karolyi, who accepted the premiership of Hungary last August, submitted his resignation and that of his cabinet today, announcing the government had completed the tasks it undertook when it assumed office.

Regent Horthy declined to accept the resignation, however, and asked Count Karolyi to remain at the helm. The count consented to do so.

Mystery

'Dark Horse' Will Open In Warner Tonight

"Thunder Below" ended last night in the Warner, which will remain closed until 8:30 o'clock tonight, when "Dark Horse," a political comedy, starring Warren William, will have its Pennsylvania premiere. City, borough and other officials will be among the invited guests at the show, for which seats also will be sold. There will be special lobby features, including broadcasting.

Helen Twelvetrees In Sheridan

"Young Bride," with Helen Twelvetrees and Eric Linden, is being featured in the Sheridan Square. The story concerns two youngsters who fail to make a go of a sudden marriage until a good beating brings the husband out of clouds and restores his common sense.

Sir Herbert Tree as Joker Met His Match Only In Ellen Terry

By GEORGE SEIBEL

When I was interviewing Constance Collier over WCAE, while she was here playing in "Hay Fever," I asked her some things about Beerbohm Tree, and afterward she said to me: "I'm going to send you the story of my life, if you'd like to read it." I made some playful remark about never yet having taken the life of any actress, though I had seen some who should have been shot. But now I have the life of Constance Collier in my hands—and it's a fine book published in England under the title of "Harlequinade"—not published in this country as yet.

Mr. Seibel

When she told me she was a very shy person, I thought it was a pose. But this book proves it—it also proves that she is one of the most sentimental of the ladies of the stage, having sentiment in place of temperament. When she was a chorus girl at the London Gayety, she used to dash across, after the play, and wait among the lookers-on at the stage door of the Lyceum in the hope of seeing Sir Henry Irving come out.

A surplus of sentiment produces a deficit of humor, and we would expect little of lightness or laughter from one who has the profile of a tragedienne. As Sir Herbert Tree said about her once, "You don't expect a sense of humor in a passion flower." But certainly she had more of a sense of humor than Sir Herbert, on one occasion, when they were playing in "Anthony and Cleopatra."

It seems that Tree, who loved historical facts, discovered that Cleopatra had five children. This appealed to his whimsical, fantastic mind. What was Constance Collier's horror to find herself in a grand procession, going to meet Anthony, followed by a brood of five children, graduated like organ-pipes. She implored Tree to take them away, but he insisted on all five at the dress-rehearsal. Afterward he compromised on three, and she did her best to act as if they were only pages, following her about to carry her train or her fan. She says, "I could willingly have strangled my entire family."

QUEENS ALWAYS PREFERRED

While telling about her Cleopatra, Miss Collier makes an observation that shows her a true psychologist, though she became one merely by observing human nature and the unconscious reactions of people. She says:

"If I were playing goddesses or duchesses there would be a certain deferential attitude toward me, even from the stage hands in the theater. If, for instance, I was gorgeously robed as Cleopatra, they would unconsciously make way for me; but in the character of Nancy Sikes—the woman of the streets in Dickens' 'Oliver Twist'—ragged and beraggled, they would push me about with the scenery."

Since she was inherently sentimental, and her fellow players knew it, she had to stand for many practical jokes. One of them was Tree's, who came on after a curtain call and presented her with an exquisite little bouquet of spring onions. The audience may have thought they were lilies of the valley, or something poetic, but she knew better.

WHEN TREE GOT HIS

But once Sir Herbert was paid in his own coin, in the best Falstaff story I ever heard. The inveterate joker met his match in Ellen Terry when they were all playing together in "Merry Wives of Windsor." Tree, as Falstaff, wore a rubber suit, which was blown up like a bicycle tire to the enormous size necessary for Falstaff. One day Ellen Terry took a hatpin and stuck it into Falstaff's enormous paunch at the beginning of a long scene. The effect was fantastic. Falstaff slowly began to deflate, and when the scene ended he came off with his clothes hanging in festoons around him, very thin and angry. Ellen Terry was nowhere to be seen—she had locked herself in her dressing room.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

BIG MIKE was born in a small town in Greece some 53 years ago. As a growing child, he told his playmates that he would some day leave for America and that he would be a great success in that land. The children and their elders laughed at him and told him it would be a miracle if he were ever able to leave the town in which he was born. For his family had barely enough money to have bread in the house.

The miracle came to pass, however, and by various schemings and devious routes he managed to land on American shores. He worked hard as a peddler and, by plodding along day after day, he had saved several hundred dollars for himself. Then—and it was about 30 years ago—Big Mike took his savings, settled in a rising, little steel town some 30 miles south of Pittsburgh and began to look about for things to accomplish.

According to D. W. L., the first 15 years were the hardest for him. He was earning a living and still putting a few dollars aside each week, but he was far from the goal he had set for himself. His break came when he decided to build a motion picture house on the main street of the town.

His friends were all against the proposition. They told him it would be a miracle if the deal went through. But even if it did, they pointed out, it probably wouldn't pay anyhow. But Big Mike kept on. With plenty of bluff and plenty of promises he once more achieved the miraculous. After it had been operating a few years the house jumped into the big money. And so did Big Mike.

With the first touch of success, Big Mike rode high and heavy. Everything he touched turned to gold. The money miracles he wrought were many and varied. He bought bad pieces of property and turned them into profitable investments. He furnished a magnificent home for himself and settled back to enjoy the fortune that was constantly increasing for him.

Overnight came the crash. One by one his properties slipped through his fingers. Investments that were once most profitable dwindled away to almost nothing. Two years passed rapidly—and before he quite realized what had happened, Big Mike was left with nothing but the movie house that had originally started him on the road to fortune.

But the house was losing money now. And, some two months ago, his creditors took the place away from him, too. Big Mike was standing outside his theater when they gave him the news. He didn't say anything. He merely looked up at the sign above the theater and laughed strangely.

"Today," the sign read, "The Miracle Man." . . .

AN AUTHOR of my acquaintance employs a male secretary who undoubtedly has the softest job in town. The author travels a great deal and types practically all of his material himself. Accordingly, his secretary has very little to do. He visits the author's small office at his leisure, opens whatever mail might be there, types a letter or two—and calls it a day.

I doubt very much whether the young man has worked more than five full hours a week during the four years he has been employed by the author. Several of the novelist's friends have pointed out to him that he needs neither the secretary nor the office. But he explains it very simply.

"Having an office," he asserts, "sounds like something. And keeping a secretary makes everything a little more important. I know he drinks too much for his own good, and I know he does no work. But Frank's a nice kid, and where will he go if I fire him?

"No, my friends, I'm afraid I'll have to keep my office open, if it's only to take care of my secretary's job."

Several nights ago the author stumbled upon an idea that sounded like a grand plot for a novel. For some reason or other he decided to dictate the thought instead of pounding it out himself. He phoned his secretary all over town and finally located him in a speakeasy in the Fifties.

"Listen, Frank," he said. "I think I've got a grand idea and I want to dictate an outline as soon as possible. It's 8 o'clock now. Get your book and be over at my apartment at 9."

The secretary hesitated for a moment and then said he would be there. But 9 o'clock came and went, and no word from the young gentlemen. At 10 o'clock the novelist was furious. He clapped his hat on his head and decided to take a short stroll.

Just as he was leaving the building along came his secretary with another man. Both of them were stewed to the gills. The young man waved a hand.

"Howaya, boss?" he hiccoughed.

The author narrowed his eyes.

"After all I've done for you," he cried, "this is my reward. I'm not going to use you tonight, so you can go and get as drunk as you wish. But get this through your head: I'm fining you $20 for this display. You'll get that much less salary this week."

He walked angrily away. And the secretary with the soft job lurched against his companion.

"There you are, Harry," he said, mournfully, 'Thass gratitude for you. Docksh my salary 'cause I had a few drinksh—an' me actually coming up here to work for him after office hoursh!" . . .

FROM AN anonymous student in the University of Chicago comes one of those Minneapolis-St. Paul stories that crop up from time to time. It may be an old baby to you but I never heard it before.

The rivalry between Minneapolis and St. Paul is, of course, traditional. Some years back, when the feud was at its height, a committee of businessmen who represented both cities gathered together to see what could be done about the situation.

Strangely enough, these men got along in fine fashion. There was plenty of beer being guzzled as the meeting progressed, and within an hour you'd never dream that there had ever been any rivalry between the two factions. Three or four speakers urged the merging of the two cities, and there was the wildest kind of cheering. Then the leader of the Minneapolis delegation arose.

"Gentlemen," he asserted vigorously, "I can truthfully say that nothing has ever given me more pleasure than the speakers I heard here tonight. And when the merging of Minneapolis and St. Paul was approved by you, I was thrilled beyond description.

"It remains for us now to pick a name for the one city. I have one that I'm positive will meet with everybody's approval. I suggest that we call both towns Minniehaha. The Minnie will stand for Minneapolis. And—"

"And haha," he roared, "for St. Paul!" . . .

New TYDOL wins anti-knock road Test of 17 gasolines

Electric Ear GIVES VERDICT

✳ ELECTRIC EAR KNOCK CHART

The "ELECTRIC EAR" is the popular name for the new and amazingly accurate instruments which record sound in decibels. The "Electric Ear" was perfected by the Electrical Research Products, Inc. These same super-sensitive instruments were used by the Noise Abatement Commissions of America's leading cities.

This test conducted and computed by

A HOT engine, a heavy load, a steep hill—there's the real test of anti-knock quality. Laboratory knock ratings are apt to go hay-wire under these real road conditions—as every motorist knows.

So the new Sound Meter—the "Electric Ear" of the Electrical Research engineers—made this amazing test on the road, the first of its kind.

It caught every knock in each of 17 gasolines—all non-ethyl gasolines, all bought in the open market from road-side stations. It registered that knock. Hour after hour, for 3 days, the "Electric Ear" checked and triple-checked every gasoline.

Same car. Same load. Same speed. Same grade . . . but what a difference in knock rating! Look at the decibel chart. You'll see where the New TYDOL stands—It heads the list in real anti-knock quality.

The chart doesn't show its speed and pick-up, its instant-starting, its super-power and extra mileage. But your first trial run will show them to you—plainly.

GIBSON AND EVERS ONLY SURVIVORS

OUT OF A TOTAL of 21 players used by the Pittsburgh and Chicago clubs in the game that opened Forbes Field 23 years ago today, Johnny Evers, now a scout for the Boston Braves, is the only man aside from George Gibson having any major league connections at present. Several of the others are dead. The rest have long since passed out of the big show, and only one or two of them are even in minor league baseball in any capacity. The officiating umpires, Bob Emslie and Hank O'Day, also have retired from active field service. Vic Willis and Gibson formed the Pirate battery that day, with Bill Abstein, Jack Miller, Honus Wagner and Jap Barbeau making up the infield, and Fred Clarke, Tommy Leach, Chief Wilson and Ham Hyatt in the outfield. Hyatt batted for Wilson in the eighth inning and finished the game in right field. Blaine Durbin ran for Gibson and Allan Storke batted for Willis in the ninth. The Cubs had Ed Reulbach pitching, Jimmy Archer catching, Frank Chance, Evers, Joe Tinker and Harry Steinfeldt in the infield, and Jimmy Sheckard, Artie Hofman and Frank Schulte in the outfield.

Johnny Evers

A GROUND RULE caused the 3-to-2 defeat of the Pirates. On account of the size of the crowd—30,338 paid admissions, a new world baseball attendance record at that time—there was an overflow on the field, and hits into the gathering were limited to two bases.

Jack Miller's smash to deep center in the eighth inning, with Clarke on third base and Abstein on first, would have been good for a triple or a home run ordinarily, but was held to two bases by the ground rule and only Clarke was permitted to score on it.

THE RULE UNDER which the Braves protested unsuccessfully a game lost to the Dodgers does not always, on an overthrow that goes into a stand or a dugout, limit the advance of the runners to two bases from the base occupied at the time the pitcher delivered the ball.

The base occupied at the time of delivery by the pitcher is counted as the starting point for the two-base advance only when the overthrow is made by an infielder. When the overthrow is made by an outfielder, each runner is allowed two bases from the position he occupied at the time the throw was made.

THERE'S A GENERAL tendency to view a stolen base as something for which the catcher is responsible. On the contrary, in most cases it's the fault of the pitcher. Bases are stolen, not at the finishing end, but at the starting point. The runner's success depends on his getting the right length of lead on the getaway. If he gets a big enough lead, no catcher in the world could shoot him out with a gun, much less head him off with a human arm. To prevent this lead-taking, and consequently the stealing of bases, it's the pitcher's duty to make the runner hug the bag he is occupying, to keep him from getting the jump in an attempted thievery.

Ben Chapman

WHEN A HURLER is unable to do that he is lacking in one of the prime requisites of a first-class moundsman. Yet some of the present-day flingers otherwise rated as stars are woefully weak in that very particular. The long stay of the rabbit ball, when base-stealing went out of style to a great extent, caused them to neglect perfecting themselves in that detail.

And, seemingly, the staff that has been ranked as the greatest in the majors, the all-star slab cast of the A's, comes close to being the poorest of the lot at holding runners on bases. The National League, with a less lively ball, started to revive base-stealing before the American, and in the world series last year the Mackian pitchers were not prepared for it.

THAT'S WHY PEPPER MARTIN was able to run wild during the series. He stole five bases in the seven games. His team stole eight. Not a single steal was credited to the A's. Catcher Mickey Cochrane was criticized for the Cardinal steals, but observing baseball men blamed Mack's pitchers. The latter were not holding the runners on.

That the hurlers of the A's are still weak in this respect is shown by the record of Ben Chapman, the American League's leading base stealer. Chapman has stolen 15 bases this year, and eight of them have been stolen against the Macks. In other words, Chapman, playing in 61 games, has stolen more bases in 16 games against the A's than he has been able to steal in 45 games against other clubs.

THE HEAVYWEIGHT FISTIC division has been left in a sad plight by the defeats of Ernie Schaaf, Mickey Walker and Primo Carnera at the hands of Stanley Poreda, Johnny Risko and Larry Gains, respectively. Whereas previously there were several attractive matches in sight, now there is none. The greatest mystery of all is the decline of Schaaf. Early in the year, Ernie looked like a coming champion. He had been beating every opponent decisively. Many good judges ventured the opinion he could defeat his stablemate and part-time manager, Jack Sharkey, present title holder. But suddenly Schaaf went to pieces. He looked bad against Ted Sandwina, worse against Jack Gross, and then took a beating from Poreda. Now he's far down the scale on which he was bidding for the leadership only a few months ago.

IT HAS BEEN a year of strange ring happenings, and Spokane recently contributed another addition to the list. Tod Morgan, former junior-lightweight champion, lost a six-round decision to Don Fraser, but many of the customers who saw the fight didn't know until they read the papers next day that Fraser had won.

Referee Danny Walsh, who had decided to vote for Fraser, glanced at the two judges' ballots, thought they were both for Morgan, and raised the latter's hand in sign of victory. As the Stadium was emptying, Walsh discovered he had read one ballot wrong, that it was for Fraser instead of Morgan, so he changed the records to show that Fraser won, two votes to one.

THE SUGGESTION THAT courage was a factor in his remarkable golf successes this year is scouted by Gene Sarazen. He will not even admit that it played any part in his great finish in the United Open, in which he came from behind to win by making his last 28 holes in an even 100 strokes.

Sarazen says the dopesters who say that one player has nerve and another lacks it are wrong. All of them have it. He says the difference between winner and loser is a matter of ability and breaks. You are booked to win or you are booked to lose, is his doctrine.

Bobby Jones

SARAZEN DECLINES TO accept a ranking as the world's greatest golfer. He says that title still belongs to Bobby Jones. "The only thing that I hate about winning is all the handshaking and back-slapping and the pummeling you get, and all the things they say to you," Gene said. "I have been told a few hundred times that I am the greatest golfer the world has ever known, and that in the recent tournament I played the most remarkable golf that has ever been played by anyone, but unfortunately the records do not back up all this conversation. The greatest golf ever played was played by a gentleman whose home is in Atlanta, Ga. He happens to be the greatest golfer the world has ever seen and may ever see."

PORTLAND STAR CARDS 70 TO GAIN LEAD

BULLETIN.

CANTERBURY COUNTRY CLUB, CLEVELAND, June 30.—Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., youth, shot a 70, two under par, to pace early finishers in the Western Open golf championship here today. Abe Espinosa, of Chicago, was in second place with a 71.

CANTERBURY GOLF COURSE, CLEVELAND, June 30.—(AP.)—Canterbury's big "bogey man," a heavy wind that blows scores out of sight, was missing today as 130 shotmakers opened the 72-hole struggle for the Western Open golf championship.

The get-away was slow, and the judges were forced to postpone the starting time of some of the championship contenders.

ESPINOSA OUT IN 35

Despite a ragged seven on the ninth hole, Abe Espinosa, of Chicago, went out with a fine 35, one under par. He needed only a par 5 on the long ninth for a 33, but his tee shot there landed against a tree and he was in trouble all the way to the green. His card:

Par out	4	4	3	4	4	5	3	4	5—36
Espinosa	4	4	3	4	3	4	5	2	4—35

Paul Runyan, of New York, his playing partner, took 39 strokes, while Ky Laffoon, of Denver, went out in 37. A shot to the trap on the short third cost Miyamato, champion of Japan, two extra strokes to par and he shot the out nine in 38.

Al Zimmerman, Portland (Ore.) youngster, came right behind Espinosa with a par-shattering 34. He was dropping his putts from all angles and distances. His card:

Out .....3 4 3 3 3 5—34

PERKINS REACHES TURN IN 37

T. Philip Perkins, of New York, had trouble with his putts on the outward trip, but carded a 37 anyway. On the first three holes he putted for birdies, but none of them would drop. Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del., the defending champion, paced even with the Briton, with a 37, while Joe Corsillo, of Cleveland, posted a 35.

Cards to Celebrate Hymie Solomon Day

ST. LOUIS, June 30.—(AP.)—Baseball writers often have commented on the paucity of Jewish stars in the major leagues, but on the Fourth of July the world champion Cardinals will celebrate Hymie Solomon day.

Hymie (Jimmy Reese to you) was so popular an infielder for St. Paul in the American Association before joining the Cards that several carloads of fans will motor to St. Louis for the occasion.

One admirer, a pigeon fancier, has shipped 25 racing birds to St. Louis for Jimmy to liberate with messages to the "home folks" just before the holiday doubleheader.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE BLIND GOLFER—Seven and one-half years ago, C. F. Russell, of Duluth, lost his eyesight, but even that handicap did not prevent him from enjoying one of the world's most popular sports. Since that time, he has been playing golf regularly at the Ridgeview golf course, in Duluth, and on one occasion made the remarkable score of 84. He is able to do this by using a caddie to line him up with the ball and give him the distance in yardage of the shot to be made. Russell has played on courses all over the country, under all handicaps, and has done very well in competitive play, always coming in under the 100 mark. A grand prize in the National Believe It Or Not contest—a Gruen Guild wrist watch—has been presented to Gerard Spencer, of Duluth, for this suggestion. THE REAL BARNUM—P. T. Barnum, who is best remembered for his statistics on the "sucker" crop, himself was not immune to the wiles of the glib-tongued bunco artists. He fell repeatedly for some fantastic get-rich-quick schemes. The story of his life is replete with business ventures revealing his credulity. He invested money in artificial snow, wonder-working bear grease and improved cologne water. The "bubbles" which separated Barnum from his money were a permanent newspaper theme for many years.

TOMORROW: A HUMAN HORSE'S MANE.

W. & L., YALE GOLFERS LEAD

CASCADES CLUB, HOT SPRINGS, Va., June 30.—(INS.)—Billy Howell, of Washington and Lee, favorite in the national intercollegiate golf tourney, was 4 up on Bob Moffett, of Princeton, after nine holes in today's 36-hole quarter-final match.

J. Parker, of Yale, led Lee E. Hammett, of Dayton, 2 up. J. Fischer, of Michigan, and John Florio, of Ohio State, were squared, and Sid Noyes, of Yale, was 1 up on Bob Kepler, of Ohio State, at the ninth.

U. S. G. A. Rapped For Slight of Goodman

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Metropolitan golf critics have taken up the weapons for Johnny Goodman, the Omaha amateur ace, and have delivered a broadside of criticism against the United States Golf Association for failure to name him among the 10 players for this year's Walker Cup matches with Great Britain.

Goodman's all-around tournament record, observers asserted, appeared much more impressive than that of several named on the team. This covers the period from 1929, when Goodman sprang to fame by beating Bob Jones in the first round of the national amateur at Pebble Beach, up to the 1932 national open at Fresh Meadow, where the Nebraskan was top amateur and shot a 68 on his final round.

Split-Heat Wins Features at Oval

Fast times and two split heat victories provided the features of yesterday's program of harness racing at Schenley Oval as the Schenley Matinee Club staged its weekly program.

In the first race, Allan, Jr., took the last two heats to score in the mile trot and in the second event, also a trot, Peter Cochata won the first heat, finished second to Victor King in the second and then came back to win the third.

'SARAZEN OPEN,' ELDRED SAYS

The authority for this statement is Vincent Eldred, professional of the Highland Country Club. He so expressed himself in an interview with Tom Birks, golf editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, during the weekly radio broadcast of the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Sun-Telegraph over WCAE last night.

Sarazen was handicapped from the start because he was generally expected to win, following his triumph in the British Open, according to Eldred. He came through to tie the all-time National Open record score of 286, a better mark than Jones ever turned in in any of his triumphs, and Eldred said he does not figure Gene would have suffered from a psychological effect if he had known he had Jones to beat. It was a "Sarazen tournament."

Eldred who tied for eleventh place in the Open, also spoke interestingly on other phases of the tournament.

Herbert M. (Hub) Rinehart, star of the tennis courts, registered well with two songs and wise-cracking. Miss Marian Salmon, pianist; Jules Levin, Herb McGee and Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, also participated in the program, the last named as master of ceremonies.

OUIMET SHOWS FORM

OSTERVILLE, Mass., June 30.—(AP.)—Making his first important competitive start of the season, Francis Ouimet, national amateur champion, shot a sensational 76 yesterday for his opening round in the Massachusetts open title play on the Oyster Harbors course. Par for this long and well-trapped layout is 72.

Game starts at 3:30 o'clock.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The first-place Pirates will disport themselves on the home field this afternoon for the edification of many of their loyal supporters, the World Champion Cardinals to furnish the opposition. The occasion is heavy with sentiment. In the first place the game will mark the twenty-third anniversary of the dedication of Forbes Field, generally admitted to be the prettiest baseball park in the country. Secondly, the contest will be augmented by the appearance of many ladies and girls who will be out to inaugurate Ladies' Day at Forbes Field. The members of the fair sex will be the guests of Mrs. Barney Dreyfuss in whose honor Ladies' Day is being inaugurated.

The spectacular spurt of the Buccos which transformed them from cellar occupants to league leaders naturally is the big item with the masculine fans and these are not confined to the Pittsburgh district. All over the circuit the Buccos are being heralded as an up-and-coming outfit and one that will be watched with keen interest.

LADIES BUC GUESTS

The presence of the ladies, of course, will add a lustre to the first clash of three with the Redbirds. The home management has made arrangements to handle the guests in a courteous manner and in the event of favorable baseball weather the event is sure to be one of much merriment and cheer.

Manager George Gibson, of the Buccos, stated today that Heine Meine was his first choice as a slab selection for the first clash. Steve Swetonic also is considered for the pitching assignment. Meine has won three and lost but one game and he also contributed a gripping piece of relief pitching in the last inning of the second clash with the Reds at the Oakland Orchard Saturday afternoon. Swetonic has won eight and lost but one to lead the circuit's pitchers. But for a mistake or two in the first clash with the Reds on Saturday Steve would have added another triumph.

Gabby Street, pilot of the St. Louis kings of the sport, is expected to counter with Jess Haines, the veteran, or the picturesque Jerome Dizzy Dean. Haines has shown some of his oldtime form recently while Dean looks like himself since he ended his latest French leave scenario.

LEAD AT STAKE

First place is at stake in that the Buccos could slide into third place in the event of a defeat. The Cubs and Braves are practically tied for second place; victories by these two clubs today would move both in front of the Oaklanders, were the home boys to bow before the Cardinals. The Freebooters, however, are in good shape and apparently are worrying very little as to position.

Lloyd Waner is likely to be at his centerfield post as the series gets under way. The wee star of the garden has been taking daily treatments for his spiked right foot. The Pirate trainer feels the leadoff man will be able to stay in the lineup. The whole club enjoyed an open date yesterday. Tomorrow will be Children's Day at Forbes Field.

HAMAS LOSES TO LOUGHRAN

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(AP.)—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia heavyweight, won a 10-round decision last night over Steve Hamas, the Penn State collegian, who knocked him out in New York last January and won a decision from him here last month.

It was an entirely different Loughran who kept the Nittany Lion at bay last night. Loughran clearly had the edge in half the rounds. Ringside experts scored three for Hamas and two even. Steve drew blood from his opponent's mouth and nose, but otherwise did little damage.

THURSTON'S PITCHING BOON TO DODGERS

VETERAN HURLS SIXTH WIN IN ROW

Associated Press.

Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, did his best bit of master minding of the season when he decided a month ago to give Hollis Thurston a break. Up on then, Thurston had been doing relief pitching now and then with indifferent success.

On May 28, Carey sent the 32-year-old righthander against the Giants. Thurston went the route and won, 6 to 4. Since then, Thurston has gone to the slab five times, and yesterday he marked up his sixth straight victory. His rare success since he was promoted to the varsity is one of the big reasons why the Dodgers are in a tie for fourth place in the National League today, only three games from the top.

Yesterday's 7-to-0 win over the Phillies was Thurston's second straight shutout and ran his record of consecutive innings to 22. He was only the third pitcher to blank the Phils in their home park this season.

Although they rallied to score four runs in the last of the ninth, the Cincinnati Reds dropped another one-run decision to St. Louis, 10 to 9. Charlie Gilbert hit into a double play with the tying run on base.

Lefty Gomez, seeking his twelfth straight victory, was knocked from the hill in the eighth, but the high-flying Yankees defeated Washington, 6 to 5. Joe Sewell's two home runs played a big part in the Yankee triumph.

Long Shot Victor In Circuit Feature

CLEVELAND, June 30.—(AP.)—Josedale, driven by Dr. H. M. Parshall, Urbana, O., upset auction speculators by pacing out a straight heat victory in the twenty-second renewal of the Old Tavern "steak" classic at North Randall yesterday.

Fight Results

At Greenlee Field—Lew Massey defeated Ray Miller, 10 rounds; Johnny Willis won referee's decision over Charley Baxter, 10 rounds; Patsy Hennigan knocked out Joe Pojello, 2 rounds, Eddie Brannon won referee's decision over Eddie Hebner, 6 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Tommy Loughran defeated Steve Hamas, 10 rounds; Ralph Ficucello defeated K. O. Christner, 8 rounds; Mack House defeated Eddie Benson, 8 rounds; Frankie Cawley defeated Walter Cobb, 8 rounds.

Meets Yarosz

JOHNNY HAYES

HAYES TESTS YAROSZ

Ted Yarosz, Monaca's undefeated welterweight, hero of two unfought bouts with Jackie Fields, the champion, and Johnny Indrisano, vanquisher of Fields, which were canceled, takes off the blankets tonight to make his delayed first appearance of the outdoor boxing season at Hickey Park, Millvale. They've dug up a rugged young Italian from Philadelphia, one Johnny Hayes, who has been in there with Vince Dundee, Eddie Ran, Billy Petrolle, Manual Quinter and other good ones, to oppose him.

Ted Yarosz

Yarosz is dragging down 35 per cent of the gate for his efforts, a big cut for a local man, and is expected to be quite the whole show, but he is being called upon to risk his untainted record against a foe who may subject him to a real surprise party, and the club looks for its best turnout of the season thus far.

Freddie Edwards, of Chester, W. Va., Yarosz' stablemate, meets Cowboy DeLuca, of Lawrenceville, doing a comeback following a long absence, in the six-round semi-final. Jerry Clements, of Jeannette, and Johnny Durso, just turning professional, are in the second bout, and General Burrows, of Aliquippa, and Jack Rinda, two more amateur graduates, are in the opener, set for 8:45 o'clock.

MASSEY EASY WINNER OVER RAY MILLER

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Two guys without a mouthpiece between them—what an odd ring sight these days!—fought the main bout at Greenlee Field last night, and it was one of the most one-sided things you or anybody else ever looked at. The party of the first part was Ray Miller, of Chicago, who recently hammered Johnny Datto into defeat in the same ring, and the party of the second part Lew Massey, of Philadelphia, who bested Tony Herrera in his only other start here. What the party of the second part didn't do to the party of the first part just simply isn't in the book.

As a matter of record, Massey won only 11 or more of the 10 rounds fought. Round after round he tore in and let go both barrels to the head and then battered away at the body. Meanwhile, Miller's famous left hook evidently was lost somewhere between South Bend and Pittsburgh. He uncorked it not more than a half-dozen or so times with any venom and the results were negative. After the fifth round he was glad to cover and stay the limit. He was bleeding badly from a cut mouth from the eighth round on.

BAXTER FIGHT BEST

The best fight on the card was the first 10-rounder, in which Charley Baxter, local lightweight, took the place of Bushy Graham, of Utica, N. Y., against Johnny Willis, elongated Philadelphia Negro, and gave the latter as tough and rough a fight as he'll ever want to cause the judges to split their decision, with Referee Al Grayber's vote giving the nod to Willis.

Willis has improved considerably since he boxed around here a few summers ago, and for a time he appeared to have too much height and reach and boxing skill as well as punch for Baxter, but the latter kept boring in and roughing up matters and finally got Jackie to bleeding from the nose and mouth and chased him from pillar to post in the last three rounds. And he did this after being dropped cleanly for a count of seven with a right to the jaw in the second round. Judge L. K. Meininger voted for Baxter and Judge Frank Ferris for Willis, who really had an edge.

PATSY SCORES ANOTHER K. O.

Joey Pojello, of Ohio, subbing for Don McLeod against Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, who was subbing for Baxter in the second bout after Charley had been moved up, proved an easy knockout victim in the second round, and Eddie Hebner, of Clairton, bested Eddie Brannon, Hill Negro lightweight, in the six-round opener, but lost the referee's decision, with the judges splitting on a draw and one vote for Hebner.

The crowd was comparatively small, the thinnest since the new arena has been in operation.

Between Rounds

The next show at the Meyers Bowl will be staged one week from next Monday, Appies Meyers, the sole promoter now, announced today. He is about to close a main bout which, he thinks, will get the club off to a good fresh start.

Cuddy De Marco says he is having trouble getting bouts for his Johnny Hazel because none of the lightweights of equal experience around here will fight him and he refuses to send him against some of the tough ones picked by the promoters. Johnny has had only two professional fights, and Cuddy doesn't want to rush him. He would like to match him against either Fritzie Zivic or Patsy Hennigan.

Roy Williams, Chicago Negro middleweight, who defeated Tommy Freeman in Cleveland last week, after the former welterweight champion had beaten Buck McTiernan and knocked out Lee Sala here, wants to show in Pittsburgh against any middleweight the promoters can line up for him.

BARTON RECALLED

READING, Pa., June 30.—(AP.)—Vince Barton, hard-hitting outfielder, has been recalled by the Chicago Cubs. He will join the Bruins in Chicago today. He had been sent to Reading by Manager Hornsby on a 24-hour optional recall. Reading will get an outfielder from the Cubs to replace Barton immediately.

PRIVATE CLUB, PUBLIC LINKS STARS CLASH

By TOM BIRKS

It will be Public Links Day at Schenley this afternoon. Richard Long, popular Oakmont amateur, will lead his team of all-stars against a picked team of free linkers, for the purpose of raising funds to send Pittsburgh's public links team to Louisville, Ky., for the National public links tournament.

It depends upon the fans who attend the matches today whether four or six players represent Pa Pitt when the National gets under way. In years past six players have gone out to battle for individual honors and the Warren G. Harding team trophy.

It is a sporting gesture on the part of the country club players to send their best players to clash with the free linkers, and the annual match has attracted large galleries in the past.

At St. Clair Women's Guest Day will be celebrated with a one-day tourney and the committee is looking for a field of 200.

Edgewood successfully defended its place in Section I of the women's league yesterday afternoon at Oakmont. Westmoreland battled hard to dislodge Mrs. F. M. Sloan's team, but one of the hardest fought matches ever played in the district found Edgewood winning, 5 to 3.

Edgewood's No. 1 pair, Mrs. F. M. Sloan and Mrs. L. G. Riley, took three points from Mrs. Chester Lehman and Mrs. L. Freidman. Miss Lois Hollender arrived home from school in time to play and teamed with Mrs. Gabey against Mrs. McGrady and Mrs. R. Irwin, who split the points.

The third match found Mrs. Colloman and Mrs. Cass Sunstein getting two points from Mrs. L. D. Numan and Mrs. Marshall.

Out in 35 and back in 31, Walter Loeffler shattered the course record at South Hills yesterday with a fine 66, five strokes under par for the course. The previous mark was a 68, held jointly by himself and the club champion, John Graham.

The Shannopin Country Club golfers will celebrate Bachelor's Day. An amateur boxing show will follow the annual golf carnival.

MILLER STOPS SUESS

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Freddie Miller, Cincinnati featherweight, knocked out Nat Suess, of Brownsville, N. Y., in the fifth round of their bout last night at Coney Island stadium. Suess was down four times before finally taking the count. Miller weighed 125, Suess 123.

SHARKEY RECOGNIZED

DORMONT CLUB STARS GIVEN RELEASES

With the idea in mind of strengthening the club for the second half race, Manager George Falconer, of the Dormont City League outfit, has announced radical changes in the makeup of the club.

Releases have been given to practically the entire infield, George While, Elmer Kestner and Jimmy Mitchell having been handed pink slips. To fill these berths, Louis Beck, a young player from Crafton, and Dave Black, with Reliance Life in the first half, have been signed. It is likely other changes will be announced by the South Hills manager today.

The City League is to hold a meeting this evening at Book's, and it is believed that Reliance Life will be missing when the second half campaign begins. Should it decide to continue, the club is considering another playing field, as the support given to the team at Bellevue was not up to standard.

This evening, at the Salt Works grounds, the Griffin club, of Glassport, will clash with Art Rooney's North Siders.

Dormont completed its first half schedule last evening by defeating the Ferris team, 9 to 1, with Carroll keeping seven hits well scattered.

In the West Penn League, the Homestead Aces clinched the first half crown by blanking the Duquesne Steelers, 7 to 0. The Frick Parkers enhanced their position in the County circuit by walloping the Scott Morgans, 7 to 0.

Homewood took over Whitaker, 3 to 2, and the McKnights defeated Bellevue, 6 to 4, in independent tussles.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

NEW YORK, June 30.—I see Lou Gehrig has played in 1,105 consecutive games, or something like that. Anyway, he now holds the long run record next to Everett Scott and "Able's Irish Rose." That's a lot of games to be in without springing a charley horse or sassing an umpire.

Nick Altrock

However, Lou still has my record to shoot at, which is answering the dinner bell for 42,079 consecutive times without missing a course, from soup to nuts.

Well, the National League is finally going to number players, which is a grand idea. Now when a National League player steals a base, the fans won't be confused whether it's Pepper Martin or Shanty Hogan. And they'll be able to check up and find out who is the Phillies' pitcher before he's knocked off the slab.

PITT NET ACE ADVANCES IN OHIO PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN
Staff Correspondent.

CLEVELAND, June 30.—Billy O'Loughlin, slim Pitt-P. A. A. star, battles Leonard Keith, veteran Forest City southpaw, in a quarter-final men's singles contest of the Ohio State tennis championships at the Cleveland Tennis and Racquet Club here this afternoon.

O'Loughlin offering a brand of play that alternated between the brilliant and the indifferent, slashed out a decisive win over Bill Becker, stocky West Side public parks ace, 6-3, 6-4, to enter the bracket of eight late yesterday.

DOUBLES PLAY HALTED

Shortly after his singles fray, O'Loughlin and his winged head partner, Sullivan, took court in opening round joust of the Ohio State doubles against the home array of Ranney and Carr. The Clevelanders annexed one set at 6-2. The Pittsburgh pair solved the overhead problem better in session two to snatch 6-3 verdict, whereupon hostilities were suspended because of darkness. The winner of this debate meets the Harvard outfit of Inglis and Key today.

The United States Inter-City doubles tournament, in which O'Loughlin and Sullivan will represent Pittsburgh, may start late this afternoon, but the probability is that it will not get under way till tomorrow.

VINES, MRS. MOODY GAIN FINALS

U. S. CHAMPIONS ADVANCE AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, England, June 30.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, American champion, paraded into the final round of the Wimbledon men's singles championship today with a stright-set victory over Jack Crawford star of the Australian Davis Cup team, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

Playing in a drizzle on a wet court with Queen Mary and Prince George in the gallery of 14,000 the slim Californian capped the climax of a day that also saw Helen Wills Moody smother Mary Heeley, English girl, in the last of the women's singles semi-finals to join her fellow-townswoman from Berkley, Helen Jacobs, in the final round.

Mrs. Moody, playing her usual steady, powerful game, kept intact her record of not losing a set in the tournament and she won as she pleased, 6-2, 6-0.

Vines' tennis today was superior to anything he had displayed previously since his arrival in England, while Crawford's game was not as sound as when he rose to spectacular heights to defeat Fred Perry, of England, earlier in Great Britain's famous tennis fortnight.

Vines' opponent in the final will be B. W. (Bunny) Austin, crack man of the British squad and long the idol of British tennis fans. Austin administered a sound trouncing to Jiro Satoh, of Japan, in their semi-final match this afternoon, defeating the wiry Oriental in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2, 6-1.

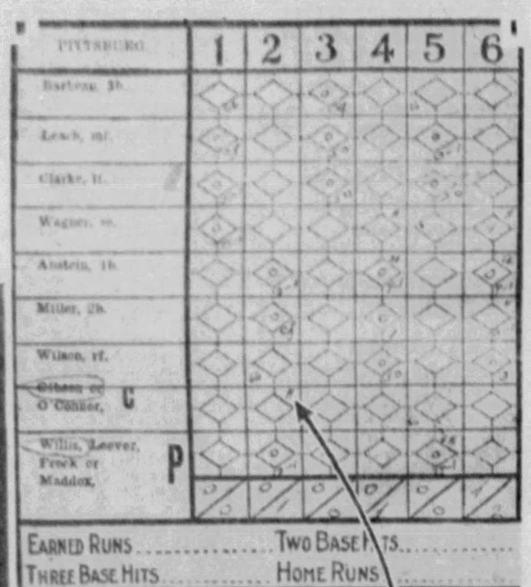
Western Mat Stars Dominate Tourney

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—The national wrestling championships moved toward the halfway stage today, third day of the tournament, with champions and challengers from the West and Middle West dominating the tournament.

Only three Eastern threats for the titles which have been going regularly to Middle Western athletes have appeared so far, in the opinion of wrestling experts at the ringside. They are Ben Bishop, 149-pound Eastern intercollegiate champion, from Manheim, Pa.; Orrin Clark, former 160-pound Eastern titleholder, from the New York Athletic Club, and Joseph Sapora, of the New York Athletic Club.

Gibby Recalls Making Forbes Field First Hit 23 Years Ago Today

George Gibson looking over precious score card kept by the late Barney Dreyfuss on the opening day of Forbes Field, 23 years ago today—on June 30, 1909. The Chicago Cubs furnished the opposition, and Gibson, now manager of the locals for the second time and with his club in first place on the anniversary, made the first Pirate hit of the contest, which the Pirates lost, 3-2. Inset at the right is an enlarged view of the score card. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.



FORBES FIELD ANNIVERSARY

June 30 of any year should be a red letter day in the life of George Gibson, the snap-into-it manager of the Pirates.

Neither depressions nor Democrats can steal the show from Gibby today, for the reason that the former star catcher of the Buccaneer band leads a first-place entry onto the same field which he helped to dedicate exactly 23 years ago.

Barney Dreyfuss's dream of a magnificient baseball park was realized as the great Chicago Cubs of the Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance era crossed bats with the just-as-great Pirates of Fred Clarke.

The Cubs won the battle, 3 to 2 and, if you wish to hear the real intimate details of the heroic struggle, you may do so any time by mentioning the contest to Gibson.

Gibson not only caught that game—he made the first Pirate hit in Forbes Field, received a flock of gifts for the single, and, according to his own version, he helped to lose the contest. Here are just a sample of Gibby's reminiscences of that memorable contest:

"It is just like yesterday so far as I am concerned. The park was so full ground rules were necessary, and they hurt us on one occasion when Jack Miller had to hold up on second on his long drive into the crowd. I remember driving through Schenley Park with Mrs. Gibson and the children right after the game. I felt pretty blue over losing.

"Johnny Evers scored the second run on my throw to first on a bunt down the third base line. I grabbed up the bunt, looked Evers back to third and then threw to Bill Abstein. Evers fooled me by his dash and he slid safely under me on a close play."

There is a bit of true sentiment in Gibson when he touches on the fight of the Pirates and the Cubs. This is especially true when George studies the neat score card of the contest as kept by the departed Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the team. Gibby studied the precious card for more than an hour yesterday as he discussed the inaugural game.—CHARLES J. DOYLE

Alden Boat Wins In Long Race

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 30.—(AP.)—John G. Alden's speedy schooner Malabar X, of Edgartown, Mass., was assured victory in the Class A division of the yacht race which started last Saturday from Montauk Point, N. Y.

Up to a late hour last night there still was some doubt that Alden's vessel had won, as there were several craft still out with longer time handicaps, but their time margin finally elapsed and the crew of the Malabar was able to celebrate its victory.

A close second was the Grenadier, owned and sailed by Henry A. Morss, Jr., of Marblehead, Mass., which finished a bare 10 minutes behind.

WOOD CRACKS MARK

NEWARK, N. J., June 30.—(AP.)—Gar Wood, veteran motorboat racing pilot, set a new unofficial record for the flying time between Detroit and Newark airport, yesterday. He left Detroit at 2:28 p. m., eastern standard time, and reached here at 4:54, covering the distance in 2 hours 26 minutes. The former mark, held by Lieut. Frank M. Hawks, was 2 hours 35 minutes.

TRACK RECORDS THREATENED

BERKELEY, Cal., June 30.—(AP.)—Several track coaches, including Lawson Robertson, of Pennsylvania, predict new running records in the annual Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships here tomorrow and Saturday. Shattering of present marks are forecast for the 100 and 440-yard dashes and the 880-yard, mile and two-mile runs.

Ben Eastman, of Stanford, unofficial world record-holder in the 440, 880 and 800 meters, will go into the two first-named events an overwhelming favorite. But Karl Warner, Yale quartermiler, who was timed in 47.3 seconds a few weeks ago, comments:

Trials tomorrow will be held in the shotput, javelin, discus, broad jump, high hurdles, 100 yards, 440 yards, hammer, 880 yards, low hurdles and 220 yards, with semi-finals in the 100 and the high hurdles.

Southern California's 32-man team, defending champion, will arrive in the morning.

HURLS NO-HIT WIN

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 30.—(AP.)—Link McCleaf, pitcher for a local sandlot team, hurled a no-hit, no-run game yesterday to defeat Johnson's nine, 5 to 0.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

Prices Stiffen After List Sinks Under Light Sales; Biscuit Makes New Low

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—The stock market ended the first half of the year today with prices still dragging along the average lows reached a month ago.

The list had a momentary upturn in the early trading as the Bank of England discount rate cut and the Democratic repeal plank generated a little enthusiasm here and there, but scattered selling soon cropped out. Gains were lost, and a number of shares sagged 1 to 3 points under yesterday's close. The list stiffened a little in the early afternoon.

Selling in the market appeared to be to some extent of a special nature. Du Pont was offered in some volume, and one theory offered in brokerage quarters was that bank loan collateral was being liquidated. Dividend uncertainties were mentioned in some cases as prompting selling, although in the case of National Biscuit, the regular payment was recently ordered. Parts of the Democratic platform calling for sound monetary and budgetary policies naturally met with favor in Wall street, while such planks as those calling for strict enforcement of anti-trust laws, and regulation of holding companies were, of course, unpopular in some quarters.

YOUNG ORIGINAL OF NEW TYPE EXECUTIVE

General Electric Chief Statesman in Business; Won't Run for Office

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Owen D. Young is a prototype of the new style business leader, who will, we hope, be more common in the coming decades.

A statesman in business, the chairman of the General Electric Company was once described by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as "a public servant, although he holds no office."

Mr. Rukeyser

Experienced in business, Mr. Young is politically minded; he is essentially a conciliator—an elucidator. Recognizing the dynamic character of economic life, he is sympathetic toward proposals for sound innovations. Mr. Young said in an address to the Harvard Business School:

"The world does not owe a man a living, but business, if it is fulfilling its ideal, owes men an opportunity to earn a living."

BORN ON FARM

Mr. Young has been taking his hat out of the political ring periodically since Senator Carter Glass suggested him as a likely Democratic candidate for the presidency as long ago as 1927.

Three years earlier, Mr. Young asked to be excused from running for Mayor of New York, saying:

"Gentlemen, it is very kind of you to suggest my name, but there is one obstacle which prevents the carrying out of your suggestion, and that is that I am not a voter in New York City. I was born on a farm in Herkimer County and that has always been my voting residence and I expect it will be as long as I live."

Referring to the tendency of Mr. Young's friends to eulogize him, Ida M. Tarbell, in her introduction to her new biography of the executive, explained:

"Though my best research failed to show him as less good than he looks, if their enthusiasm had been less contagious, I might have achieved more of the limiting lines than define a man, even where, as with Mr. Young, all discoveries seem to enlarge him."

ADVISES HOOVER

President Hoover, during the economic emergency, it is understood, has leaned on the advice and co-operation of two Democrats not holding public office, namely, Mr. Young and Bernard M. Baruch.

At present Mr. Young is hopeful that his committee of six bankers and six industrialists in New York can show the value of co-operation. He recognizes that his business at present is pursuing an uncharted course, and that remedies are necessarily somewhat experimental. He, nevertheless, is actively in favor of seeking to apply the genius of management to the baffling problems of economic deadlock and attrition.

According to the published figures concerning loans and investments of 600 reporting member banks, the deflation of member bank credit, on which industry, trade and agriculture depends, continues. With deflation still under way, it is rather academic to worry now over the hazards of inflation. The opportunity for counter deflation exists provided member banks will convert the excess reserves, created through open market purchases of government obligations by the Federal Reserve banks, into bond purchases and customer loans. Thus far the will to do so has been frail, but Federal Reserve officials are still hopeful that the pressure of central banking policy will bring the desired results. Meantime, a bond issue for useful public works would help the process of attempted counter deflation.

P. R. R. Carloadings Show Small Decline

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—The Pennsylvania Railroad system during the week ended June 25 handled 80,341 revenue freight cars as compared to 80,868 in the previous week and 119,525 cars last year. From January 1 cars totaled 2,243,873 against 3,025,125 in the like 1931 period.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 30.—While news developments, both political and economic, were somewhat mixed today, bond market sentiment showed mild improvement and there were firming tendencies scattered throughout various loan categories. The United States government section indicated a rallying disposition after yesterday's set-back. Both the Reich 5½s 28 and 7s were in demand at gains of around 2 points. French issues also steadied and British 5½s 28 were only slightly lower.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Attorney, Although Deeply In Debt, Offers Lynn Position With Him

CHAPTER XX.

Dwight was very understanding. His face was impassive as Lynn stumbled through her explanation. At intervals he said, "I see," and fingered a small gold clock which stood on the polished vastness of his desk.

It was the first time Lynn had been in his office. He was housed halfway up the great pyramidical height of the Seacoast Building. Save for the desk there was little of the office about his private room; it was more like a library.

There were paneled walls and built-in bookcases; there was nothing somber about the draperies or the fine Oriental rug on the floor; nothing massively oppressive about the chairs, the occasional furniture. There were no photographs in the room, but over the fireplace, in which green boughs had been heaped in deference to the season, there was a portrait—not of a woman, but of the little son whom David Dwight and his wife had lost during the first years of their marriage. There were flowers in the room, gay and fragrant.

His office force, save for his personal secretary, an elderly, narrow-lipped, dour-faced woman, had all gone home by the time Lynn arrived, coming directly from the bank, catching her breath at the upward swoop of the elevator and wishing, somehow, that she had not made this appointment.

But Dwight's reception of her had dispelled her formless doubts, and now she sat smiling at him from the depths of an armchair, waiting for him to speak.

OFFERED A JOB

If he had sustained a blow she could not know it. He said gently:

"I appreciate your situation. I could, of course, give you letters—a lot of letters. I know so many people; I have a finger in several pies. But as our Sarah has probably told you, as you doubtless know yourself, most concerns are cutting down their staffs. I can, as it happens," he went on, "offer you a job—a rather anomalous job—with myself."

She demurred hurriedly; flushing: "Please, I didn't mean that. I—why, what," she asked in astonishment—"what could you find for me to do? I—I can keep on downstairs perfectly well."

"Not so fast. You haven't had any secretarial training?"

"None. Just typing."

"I thought so. That's what I would be willing to offer you. You see, I'm writing a book." He smiled. "I know it's a confession of weakness and I have no intention of publishing it now. It might be better if it were published posthumously! But I need someone I can trust to get my notes in shape, to do the first rough typing and eventually the revisions on this egotistical and autobiographic expression of myself."

MARRIAGE DISAPPROVED

"I had thought of giving it to Miss Mays—my secretary—but she has enough to do as it is. Moreover, I have other things that a home secretary could do for me which would not involve dictation as much as, say bookkeeping, tact and the ability to use the English language on her own initiative. I should require you to work at the apartment, and perhaps at my place on Long Island—not here at the office. And I would pay you what the bank now pays you, and a little more."

She asked aghast, "But are you very sure —? I mean, it doesn't seem reasonable!"

"It isn't unreasonable, is it?" he asked her, laughingly.

She said, after a moment, "if I accept, it means——"

"Marriage?"

He said gravely, "I'm afraid I can't approve of that any more than Sarah does. But if your mind is made up——" He gestured briefly, and then smiled at her. "And I deplore the fact that by marrying you will give up a career. Mind, I don't offer you that with me. There's no future in turning amanuensis to an egotistical lawyer, you know, but perhaps it would tide you over this time of depression and then, later, when business picks up and banks begin to take on bigger staffs, there would doubtless be a place for you somewhere."

She said brokenly, "I can't—thank you."

DWIGHT IN DEBT

"Don't try. Is it a bargain?"

She nodded. "As far as I am concerned. But I'd have to stay at the bank a while longer until one of the girls in my department could be trained to take my place."

"I understand that perfectly." He rose. "Come, the car's outside. Let's forget business for a time and take a drive through the park and perhaps up the Hudson for dinner. Do you like frogs' legs? Good! So do I!"

It was a pleasant drive, a pleasanter dinner. Dwight was his wittiest self; he talked incessantly, almost nervously, always entertainingly. It was still quite early when he left her at the door of the apartment. She thanked him, saying good night, and as she did so, he held her hand a moment.

"May I be very banal?"

"Thanks; that's sweet of you. I wonder if Mr. Thomas Shepard knows how infernally lucky he is."

Lynn drew her hand away. "I hope so," she answered gayly. "I hope that he knows it and that he is!"

Dwight watched her enter the apartment house, stood there a moment bareheaded on the pavement, climbed back into his car again and gave an address; not that of his apartment. As the car slid away through the night, he pondered on himself, ironically amazed.

What exactly had he done? Offered to take the girl on for work, which was practically nonexistent! He'd have to make an attempt to get the scattered notes of some of his big cases together. Of course, he'd planned to do a startling book at some future date—very future. In addition, he was committing himself to an expenditure which he couldn't afford. He was up to his ears in debt.

Yet his cursed vanity had been unable to permit him to let Lynn down. Moreover, he had offered Lynn Harding a position in order that she might marry that young cub Shepard!

Of all the sublime idiocies! Had he not offered her the job, she probably would have postponed her marriage indefinitely and almost anything might have happened during that time. Married, she was lost to him. Yet was she—working with him, not in the allegedly impersonal surroundings of an office, but in his home? Married, once the first glamour had passed, she was, according to his curious code, legitimate quarry.

He wondered if Shepard would make any objection; but dismissed him from his mind as negligible. Any man in his right senses would object, but a young man in love, and ardently desiring marriage, is not in his right senses. Yet one person there was of whom David Dwight was a little afraid. And that was Sarah Dennet. Well, he could manage Sarah, couldn't he; hadn't he proved that?

Synopsis

Lynn Harding is young, pretty and ambitious for a career in the Seacoast Bank and Trust, but when she meets Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the bank's vice presidents, love quickly makes her forget the career. Both realize they cannot marry and live on Tom's salary and he will not hear of Lynn's keeping her position. That is their situation when Lynn meets the famous lawyer, David Dwight, through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Twenty years before he had been Sarah's fiance, but discarded her to marry a woman of wealth and position. Tom objects to Dwight's interest in Lynn. Following a quarrel, the young couple plan to marry. Tom agrees to Lynn's continuing her work. They spend Sunday together in Tom's apartment, planning their honeymoon. Lynn's hopes fade when she learns from Sarah that the bank does not want married women. At the suggestion of her roommate, Jennie Le Grande, Lynn decides to seek Dwight's aid.

Now Go On

"I can offer you a job with myself," said Dwight.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

I PLEDGE
Loyalty to my country.
Obedience to my parents.
Love for my fellow playmates.
I will be honest and truthful in school, on the playgrounds—wherever I may be.
I will respect my elders and help the aged.
I will do my best to spread good cheer.

The above pledge is being memorized by hundreds of boys and girls who joined the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club last week. Most of them will be able to recite it from memory when they attend the regular meetings this Saturday.

It is indeed a wonderful sight to see several hundred children of all ages standing, with their right hand raised, pledging their allegiance to the flag and then to hear these same children raise their voices singing the "Star Spangled Banner."

SPECIAL FEATURES

A hush comes over the young audience, while the manager of the theater makes a few short announcements about the coming activities of their club. This is followed by some special form of entertainment arranged especially for the youngsters.

Every four weeks the youngsters hold an election of officers, electing a Grand Jester, who is in charge of the programs and the club meetings under the supervision of the manager of the theater, a Board of Governors, consisting of six of the children, whose duties are to assist the Grand Jester conducting the meetings and the "Official Junior Reporter," whose duties are to gather items of interest about the members of their local chapter which appear from time to time in this column.

ROWLAND NEWS

Ruth Little will be missed at the regular Saturday morning meetings. She has gone to Crawford's Camp and will remain there until September.

If you are not a member of the Sun - Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send in your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend, to the secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed to you.

"With this country in such an ugly mood," says a gloomy editorial, "who is there to lead us?"

Mickey Mouse!

When you're feeling sad about the country having no leaders there's nothing cheers you up like remembering where the country has been led.

In teaching all lads to be business successes

"But on the other hand," says the Rt. Rev. Wiley, "we've been pretty good at redistributing poverty."

FAMOUS LAST WORDS.

". . . and if I am wrong I hope someone will correct me . . ."

If You Must Talk, Do It Correctly

* * *

What is more delightful than to have a perfect stranger come up, slap you on the back, and exclaim, "You certainly said a mouthful at the luncheon club today. Here—have a ten-cent cigar!"

And what is more humiliating than to have someone interrupt your speech by yelling, "Hey, you, hold the torso erect. Relax the forearm. Swivel first on the right foot, then the left. Never protrude the stomach. Circumflex your inflections to give them full meaning!"

We will help you master the art of free speech. Our first lesson is "How and when to pause."

* * *

And it's pretty clear by this time that the apartment houses of the nation should have either thicker walls or broader-minded tenants.

Bond Sale Imperative

City Council Must Provide Funds to Prevent Hunger Before State Aid Is Available.

It is imperative that City Council approve the ordinance authorizing the sale of $800,000 of direct relief bonds when that measure comes before it for final consideration on Tuesday. Early this week the bonds were approved by the finance committee.

The bonds are part of a $3,000,000 issue authorized by voters at the last primary to provide food, clothing and shelter for the needy. An additional $2,000,000 was authorized for public works to provide employment.

The fact that the Legislature is in special session to consider relief measures should not be used as an excuse for delaying the bond sale. As things stand today, it is impossible to determine just how much relief the state will provide or how long the Legislature will take to settle internal differences which threaten to upset the program drawn up at Gov. Pinchot's conferences. In any event, several months will pass before state funds will be available and the last of the local relief resources will be exhausted on August 11.

Even though the state does adopt an adequate relief program, the $800,000 from the city bond sale will be needed to prevent starvation in the interval before state funds arrive.

Up to Commissioners

County Board Should Tell Why Site Selected for Town Hall Is to Be Rejected.

The statement by County Solicitor J. Paul Fife that the Board of County Commissioners has decided to nullify an action of the previous board by refusing to complete the purchase of the Oakland site selected for the erection of a Town Hall is disconcerting to those who hoped the proposed building would be in the course of construction by this time.

Perhaps the commissioners have sound valid reasons for their stand. The public is entitled to know them. The public is entitled to a show-down at this time, and a clear exposition of just what the intent of the commissioners is in this matter.

The Town Hall idea was born in a public assemblage—a huge mass meeting. It was attended by many hundreds of persons who are looked upon as leading representatives of the best in idealistic community spirit—officials of local government, members and officers of commercial and civic organzatons and women's clubs. They were given a definite promise at that time—that was fulfilled—by a representative of the County Commissioners.

As a result of this promise the matter was put up to the voters of the county, who gave a direct mandate—"Build the Town Hall"—and authorized the commissioners to issue bonds for the purpose.

It took a long time to decide upon a site, but one has been selected. The Sun-Telegraph, original crusader for the Town Hall, refrained from taking sides in the controversy over a site, feeling that it would not be fair to favor one property to the detriment of others in a matter where publicity would have so much weight. But it did feel, as the public probably did, that when the selection was made, the next step would be the erection of the building.

Hail to the Pirates

Pittsburgh Confounds Pre-Season Experts By Excellent Showing in League Race.

Our Pittsburgh Pirates, back on their own ballyard, as our irrepressible sport writers flippantly call the magnificent Forbes Field, begin a home stay occupying a position in the National League standing that confounds the "experts" of baseball, who, at the outset of the season, couldn't "see" Pittsburgh as anything better than a second division nine. The team, picked by seers for a lowly position, occupies the leading place. True, the margin of leadership is slight and the result of today's contests may cause a change, yet the players are worthy of all credit for having climbed from the bottom to the top in the most closely contested race in the senior league in years.

The competition is so close that any prediction now would be just as reckless as that of the experts at the beginning of the season. It is generally assumed that midsummer tells the story for baseball, as every team is thought to have struck its true stride by that time. This may be true in the present situation and possibly the team may go through the remainder of the season in their approximate positions of the present. It is a tradition that the team in the lead on the Fourth of July will finish that way. But every follower of the game remembers the case of Boston a few years ago that wrecked this belief.

However, our Pirates, at the top now, have earned the respect of all other teams in the league as well as merited local tribute. The new manager, George Gibson, certainly is making good in his "come-back" and everybody naturally is "pulling" for the veteran hero of other years.

Auto Inspection

Second Three-Month Period for Examination of Cars Will Start Tomorrow.

Pennsylvania will start its second three-month automobile inspection period tomorrow. Between July 1 and September 30 every motor vehicle must be approved by an authorized state inspection station. During the three months beginning October 1 no car may be operated unless it bears the new sticker. Old stickers from the first inspection period of the year no longer will be valid.

The inspection system, inaugurated this year, has done much to improve safety conditions on the roads. Glaring lights have become rare and adequate brakes on all cars are assured. The new system, providing for two annual inspections, is an advantage over former annual inspections since lights and brakes are quite certain to get out of adjustment during such a long period. The slight inconvenience and expense of inspection are more than warranted by the knowledge that, not only your own car, but also the other fellow's car, can be stopped in an emergency.

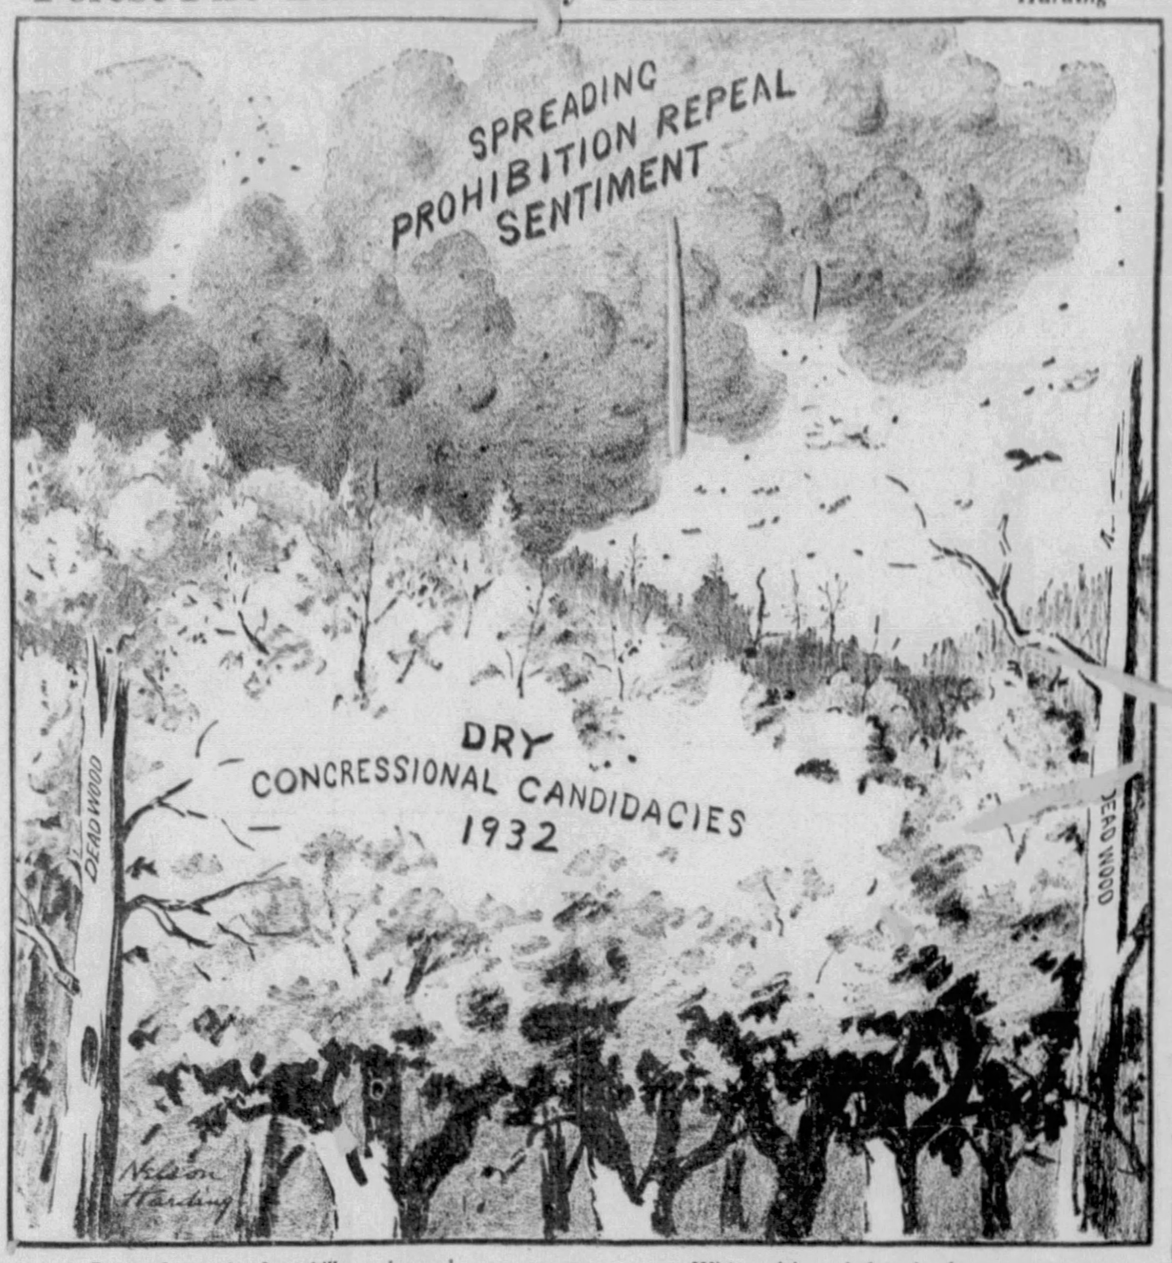
'Forest Fire Threatens Dry Timber'—News

By Nelson Harding



Dense the smoke that billows skyward,
Ominous the distant roaring.
Thickly fly the sparks and embers
As the spreading conflagration,

With a rising wind to fan it,
Threatens to destroy the woodland—
To destroy the dry and dead wood
In that parched and arid forest.

Marry-Go-Round

Woman's Clairvoyance

Every woman is more or less clairvoyant. And many a man has more faith in his wife's intuition than in his own judgment.

* * *

"Woman's intuition" is not, as some modern writers opine, just an old mid-Victorian myth. It is as real and as purely feminine as the dimples in her knees or the curve in her waistline.

* * *

Of course, no woman's intuition is infallible—and there are lots of times when it fails her. It won't tell her when the toast is going to burn or when her husband is going to bring an unexpected guest for dinner.

It never seems to tell her when love is done; or when it's time to say goodbye, and let a man GO.

* * *

It sometimes fails to work, when she is looking into the eyes of a handsome salesman, with a persuasive tongue and a lot of pretty bonds or cute little suburban lots to sell. And, it often goes dead when she is learning to drive a car and sees a fascinating telegraph pole approaching.

* * *

It never tells her when she has enough hats or enough shoes or enough admiration—or even when she's had enough husbands and enough wedding-rings.

* * *

But that is because, in such matters, she refuses to LISTEN to it!

* * *

Taken by and large, that clairvoyance within almost every normal woman is a far surer and safer guide than man's much-vaunted judgment.

* * *

A woman always "knows" when something's going to happen, when something's going wrong, or when somebody's going to break a promise or a date with her.

She knows just who's at the other end of the wire, before she answers the call or picks up the receiver — and sometimes she knows what he's going to say.

* * *

She knows when a man's in love with her before he knows it himself. And she knows when he's going to two-time her, before he has decided to do it. She knows not only what he's done—but what he's GOING to do! And she always knows when a woman is going to double-cross her—and HOW!

* * *

She doesn't know HOW she knows these things—she just KNOWS them! And, nine times out of ten, she's right! Any married man will tell you, that his wife's intuition is positively UNCANNY!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 30.—New Yorkers in their eternal hurry are said to drop $1,000 a day in small change and bills. Ragamuffins used to fish for coins through subway gratings with long sticks tipped with chewing gum. But today "grating fishing" is a diversion of the city's professional derelicts.

Down on the Bowery is a shop selling jointed rods with pull claws at the end for such salvage. Fertile fields, of course, are in congested areas — Grand Central, Fourteenth street and Brooklyn Bridge. There are many so expert they average around $2 a day.

Most of it goes for that lethal hip potion known as "Bowery smoke!" Early Sunday the revenue is especially large, due to the fact that Saturday night revelers are often careless. The biggest haul is said to have been a wallet containing $600.

The finder confessed after spending it and winding up in Bellevue after a two-months' spree. I am told, too, that some of the dogs with tin cups on their backs are rented from an agency on Bleecker street by beggars. Two exceptions are the pair of legless men moving along Broadway on portable platforms.

The dogs of some are rented for $2 a day plus a $25 deposit, forfeited if anything happens to the dogs. The same agency furnishes wheel chairs, crutches and other paraphernalia for fakers. There is a hotel near Canal street called "The Roost," a rendezvous of street mendicants.

* * *

Only one place in town where one may be barber shaved after mid-day Sunday. This is the Turkish bath, and they do a brisk business among Saturday stay-outs.

* * *

* * *

Now and then the Rialto has a sturdy visitor in John C. Moreland, a coal dealer of Corning, N. Y., hale and hearty at 80. He is an old circus performer, being the only acrobat to triple somersault from a springboard and live. Moreland accomplished the feat first in St. Louis in 1876 and last in New Haven in 1885.

* * *

A Little Czechoslovakia of about 1,000 has grown up on a stretch of Second avenue. Their apartments are a combination of shop and home, where they offer toothbrushes of enticing tints, tricky pocket knives, brightly colored pencils and pens.

* * *

In Christopher Morley's columning days he practiced a minor deception in putting across some robust sentiment he thought too direct for personal utterance. In such exigencies he would ventilate the idea as a quotation from Emerson or Thoreau. Only once did any reader question the authority.

* * *

Most writers drag in a quotation by the heels now and then as an off-hand after-thought. In instances the sole intent is a studied effort to create the effect of casualness. It is one of the writing tricks.

* * *

Speaking of writing, the lobby of the sedate Murray Hill becomes a meeting place of the literati one afternoon a week. The occasion is the weekly arrival of Thomas Costain, the Saturday Evening Post's bugle-man, who drops into town to rehearse things with the scribblers and artists.

* * *

He was with a curb group in front of Lindy's on Broadway—one of the high-tonsiled, pinch-backed boys arrayed in a suit of light tan, salmon pink shirt and a four-in-hand of bright green. Bugs Baer, passing, glanced at him with a start, went over and inspecting him closely, sighed happily: "I thought at first it was another bilious attack."

* * *

A favorite story of "Scamp" Montgomery, Dave's brother, concerned a search for a volunteer who would permit Anna Oakley to shoot an apple off his head in the circus arena. A black boy, napping in the sun, was awakened with the proposal and assurance Miss Oakley never missed. Backing away blinking and eyes bulging he mumbled: "Let Miss who shoot what apple off whose haid?"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You're lonely.

Yes, you have friends. You go places and do things. You're "in circulation," but—

There's a part of you that isn't in circulation. There's a part of you that seems forever shut off, like a pool of dark, bitter water in a cavern, where light and sound never enter.

There's a part of you that is like that—black, bitter, desolate. Your deepest grief is there; the memory of your cruelest failure and humiliation; hate, too, perhaps, and fear you won't confess.

People come and go through the rest of your life. You laugh, work, play with people, but they never enter that part of your life. They do not even know that it is there. You never tell them about it. And so—

YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF IF YOU'LL SHARE YOURSELF.

Stop walling off part of your life from the rest of the world.

Open up ALL your life.

SHARE YOUR GRIEF.

There is nothing new or different about your grief, poor dear! Human tears, human heart breaks have been the same since Eve first wept over her dead boy.

There is a grave in your life, and a grave in mine. Why should we be so bitterly proud about our graves? Why should we keep them apart, crouching beside them in our arrogant despair? Let us not make grief more terrible by this selfish solitude. Share your tears with me, my friend. Let me share mine with you.

Let us take death together as we take life together. Perhaps, if we together have the courage to let in the light, we may find that death and life are one. And the grave is only a sill over which we, too, shall presently pass into a larger room.

Shame—the memory of failure. There is another thing you have hidden away into the secret darkness, isn't it? Stop it!

SHARE YOUR SHAME.

Stop being so snooty about your failures. You're not snooty? But you are, my friend. Can't you see that this refusal to reveal foolishness is the worst sort of snootiness? By doing so you imply that you aren't like all the other saps. You—Wonderful You—CAN'T fail.

Kick out of it, old dear! Everyone blunders. Every one makes a fool of himself, sooner or later. You're no de luxe exception. Come clean! 'Fess up. Acknowledge you're an idiot like all the rest of the cockeyed human race. Be brave enough to be laughed at. Laugh at yourself. Share that laugh with the other fellow. And you'll be surprised to find what a relief it will be!

Resentment. There's the rest of that secret burden. Someone has hurt you; betrayed your trust; lied to you; and the memory of it has been poisoning you for years. You can never quite forget it—never fully trust anyone after that cruel thing happened to you.

But it didn't happen just to you! Cruel things happen to everyone. So stop thinking you're the world's worst martyr.

SHARE YOUR RESENTMENT.

Then, suddenly, an amazing thing will happen. The minute you begin to share your resentment, the resentment will begin to shrink. It will no longer be an enormous, personal burden. It will be part of the common human experience—just the luck of the trail.

Lonely? Feel apart? Then stop feeling apart. Stop feeling snooty and different. Stop hoarding your personal mistrusts. SHARE THEM—AND THEY'LL SHRINK!

Text for Today Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me.—Psalms, Li:10.

(Today's text is suggested by the Rev. John C. Lorimer, pastor, Forest Avenue United Presbyterian Church, Bellevue.)

The Hand and the Eye

In Both You Read Character.

COVER THE EYE WITH YOUR THUMB, SEE DIFFERENCE

This picture of a British actor named Bobby Howes, wit the actor pretending he is bashful or ashamed, or somethin else, shows the importance of the human hand and eye in r vealing character.

To study character is an important part of life. Women it is said, can tell a man's character at a glance, and even at a distance.

Our female ancestors in constant danger of all sorts, in the old cave days, needed all of their intuition to tell them whether the gentleman approaching was coming to help raise the little children or eat them.

Men read character with difficulty, compared with wome but they know, as women do, that the hand and the eye t what is in the brain.

The eye especially, as this picture interestingly shows, expresses emotion and character. It is the window through which you can look into the mind, the opening through whic the mind looks out, sees the world as it is, and through th optic nerve sends information and impulses back to the brai cells.

In this interesting picture, everything changes when y cover up with your thumb the shining eye. The hand los part of its character, the life goes out of the picture. It extremely difficult to read the character of the blind, that have "no speculation" in their eyes.

There are as many kinds of eyes as there are kinds o human beings, the fearless eye, the "shifty" eye, the ey downcast in thought, the eye turned upward in contemplati the eye that is concentrated and the eye not concentrated.

And so with hands, you have the firm hand that sho executive capacity. You have the sensual hand showing s indulgence, you have the hand with the weak thumb, small in proportion to the rest of the hand, the weakness often reflected in the mind that directs the hand.

The nose indicates "breeding" or the lack of it. But the eye and the hand give the most information.

JUST A 'MOLL'

By Winifred Black

The quiet man of affairs put down his book of detectives stories and gave a deep sigh.

"I do wish I could see a Moll," he said. "I'm always reading about them, but I never can catch even a glimpse of one.

"The gunmen and the gangsters seem to have all the luck. They don't have to buy a house and furnish it, and put some money in the bank, and engage a cook and a gardener, and open a charge account at every one of the big shops, to get a woman to smile upon them. Not they.

"When a gangster wants a Moll, he just steps into some good speakeasy and culls the prettiest girl in the place, gives her a come-hither look, nods backwards, mutters out of the side of his mouth, 'Step along, kiddo'—and there he is with his Moll.

"The Molls are all alike. Oh, there's a difference in type, of course. Some are blonde, and slim, and quick as a cat—feline, that's the name for them, seems to me. And some are dark, and have flashing black eyes, and a will of their own—voluptuous, that's the word for them. But they're all Molls, just the same.

"They may drink a bit too much, and their language is not always exactly perfect, but they'll die for their man—die in slow torture, and never even groan. And when the gangster has cu his Moll's throat and gone t prison, and somebody with a pu gets him out, all fresh and gay a a lark, who stands at the priso gate waiting to welcome him?

"Moll, of course. Another brand new Moll, all ready to die for him on her own account.

"I do wish I could see a Moll. I read about them in the true stories. I see them in the pictures. I hear these newspaper fellows talking about them, when they're discussing the murder cases. But I never can lay eyes on a Moll myself. I'm getting to be really sensitive about it!"

The man's brother neglects his wife. He deceives her whenever he can. He spends money on every woman he knows except her. And she knows it, and grieves about it; and keeps right on loving him, and worshiping him, and following him from where to where. And everybody laughs at her, and nobody pities her at all.
